HOME STRETCH: INDIA BEGIN QUEST FOR WORLD CUP GLORY AGAIN

Rohit Sharma and Co will take on Australia in their opening game in Chennai on Sunday. India will be looking to win an ICC event after 10 years

MISSION TO END TROPHY DROUGHT

It has been 12 years since India won an ODI cricket World Cup, 10 since an ICC trophy (2013 Champions Trophy). In every tournament since, they have crumbled in do or die games. The hosts, however, have the advantage this time and have the arsenal in their squad to go all the way come November 19 at the Narendra Modi Stadium, Ahmedabad

GILL UNCERTAIN, OTHERS READY TO ROAR

- Rohit Sharma hasn't ruled out opener Shubman Gill, who is unwell. But it is unlikely that he will start in Chennai. Ishan Kishan may fill in
- Australia got better of India last time they played at the venue in March, but conditions could be different this time with all the rain in the city. Local lad R Ashwin could be the trump card | P15

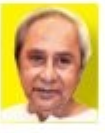
INDIA CELEBRATES ASIAD CENTURY

- India crossed the 100-medal mark when the women's kabaddi team won gold beating Chinese Taipei. India won 12 medals including six gold, highest in a day this edition
- Satwiksairaj Rankireddy-Chirag Shetty beat South Korea's Choi Solgyu-Kim Wonho 21-18, 21-16 in men's doubles final
- Indian kabaddi team reclaimed title after beating last edition's champions Iran in the final
- Indian men's cricket team won gold beating Afghanistan
- Jyothi Surekha and Ojas Deotale won individual gold

A momentous achievement for India at the Asian Games! The people of India are thrilled that we have reached a remarkable milestone of 100 medals

— Narendra Modi, Prime Minister



Heartiest congratulations to the Indian contingent for crossing 100-medal mark at the #AsianGames

— Naveen Patnaik, Odisha CM

PM's vision and the facilities provided through schemes like Khelo India and TOPS, along with the hard work and determination of the players made sure that India won 100 medals. I salute all sportspersons for making history in these Asian Games

— Anurag Thakur, Sports Minister

100 REASONS TO REJOICE

SWAROOP SWAMINATHAN @Hangzhou

IN some ways, it's rather poetic that some of India's final medals were won by Jyothi Vennam, R Praggnanandhaa and the men's doubles badminton pair of Satwiksairaj Rankireddy and Chirag Shetty. All of them either represent India's future or created history to be on top of the podium as the Asian Games came to a close from an Indian perspective. In the end, they had 107 medals. For the record, this is the best ever Asian Games in terms of overall as well as gold won.

When Saturday morning dawned in the foothills of the Fushu mountain range, a day of promise, as expected, bore fruit immediately. Seventeen-year-old Aditi Swami won a bronze in the women's individual compound to open the account. By the time India's compound archers had locked away the equipment, the national anthem had echoed around the mountains twice. Both Jyothi and Ojas Deotale added to their kitty, with a third gold each which jointly made them the most successful Indian athletes of the Games.

Even as both kabaddi teams expectedly won gold (not before the India v. Iran men's match descended into a farce), the best action came from badminton. Rankireddy and Shetty have had a 2023 to savour. P15

Hamas attack kills 100 Israelis

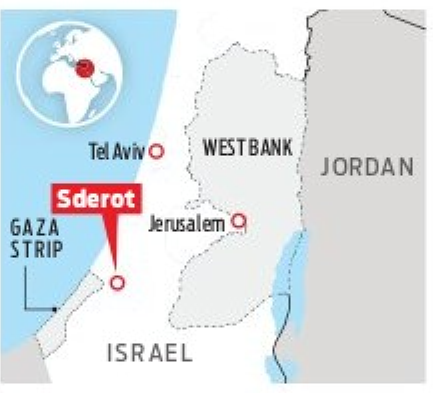
● TERRORISTS BREACH GAZA BORDER FENCE ● ENTER ISRAEL THROUGH LAND, AIR AND SEA ● TAKE SOLDIERS, CIVILIANS HOSTAGE ● 198 KILLED IN RETALIATORY STRIKES

YESHI SELI @New Delhi

A massive terror assault at dawn on Saturday when the arguably most protected and alert nation was observing a major holiday left at least 100 Israelis dead and 900 others injured. In its retaliatory strikes, Israel killed at least 198 people and wounded 1,610 others in the Gaza Strip, the Palestinian health ministry claimed.

The day began with a massive wave of attack from the Hamas outfit that controls the Gaza Strip. It fired thousands of rockets while its terrorists parallelly infiltrated the heavily fenced border at several locations by air, land and sea.

Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu said they were at war. "We are at war. In war, one needs to be level headed. I call on all citizens of Israel to unite in order to achieve our highest goal — victory in the war,'' he said.



Security tightened at Israel consulate in Bengaluru

Bengaluru: Security has been beefed up at the office of the Consulate General of Israel on Murphy Road at Halasuru in the city in view of the conflict between Israel and Palestine. City Police Commissioner B Dayananda has directed the jurisdictional Halasuru sub-division police to keep a close watch on the office.

Hamas commander Mohammed Deif called it Operation Al-Aqsa Storm. The Al-Aqsa mosque compound in Jerusalem is the third holiest site in Islam.

Prime Minister Narendra Modi expressed shock at the attack. "Deeply shocked by the news of terrorists attacks in Israel. Our thoughts and prayers are with the innocent victims and their families. We stand in solidarity with Israel at this difficult hour," he said. The Indian Embassy in Tel Aviv urged all Indian nationals in Israel to remain vigilant and observe all safety protocols as advised by local authorities. There are close to 18,000 Indians in Israel, which includes caregivers employed by Israeli elders, diamond traders, IT professionals and students. Besides, there are approximately 85,000 Jews of Indian origin. Air India cancelled its flights to Tel Aviv. Meghalaya Chief Minister Conrad K Sangma said 27 people from the state were stranded in Bethlehem.

The terrorists managed to penetrate the fence and even flew into Israel through paragliders. Video clips of the border fence being blown up at a particular location and Hamas gunmen on motorbikes and pickup trucks riding into Israel through the breach trended on social media. They also used speedboats to cross into the coast. The attackers took dozens of Israeli soldiers and civilians as hostages. Besides, two Hamas men entered a house in the southern city of Ofakim and held the residents hostage. A similar hostage situation was reported from the Be'eri kibbutz.

The Israel Defense Forces (IDF) said their troops were fighting in 22 locations. "Our goals are that all the terrorists will be killed, that all the communities will be rid of terrorists," the IDF said.

12 charred to death in cracker godown blaze at Attibele

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

TWELVE people were charred to death when a major fire broke out at a cracker shop-cum-godown at Attibele on the outskirts of Bengaluru on Saturday.

The victims were working in the godown on the service road along Hosur Main Road. The condition of one more worker is said to be critical.

The bodies of the victims were charred beyond recognition. However, some of them have been identified as Vediyappan, Vijay Raghavan, Sachin, Akash, Prakash, Adikeshavan and Elambarandhi. All said to be from Tamil Nadu.

Around 20 workers were at the shop-cum-godown when the fire broke out at 3.30 pm. Four others, including the shop owner, suffered burns.

Traffic on the highway was disrupted for more than five hours. Sources said the blaze at the cracker shop-cum-godown led to piling up of vehicles for more than six km on the highway. Around nine fire tenders were pressed into service. Some fire tenders from neighbouring Tamil Nadu were also rushed to the spot. Fire force personnel managed to put out the fire around 8.30 pm.

According to sources, the fire broke out at Balaji Crackers owned by Naveen Kumar of Attibele. The plot is owned by Ramaswamy Reddy, who rented it out for the shop-cum-godown. More than six vehicles, including a truck, loaded with crackers were destroyed in the blaze. P5

Raw alcohol, millet flour exempt from GST: Council

MONIKA YADAV @New Delhi

THE GST Council on Saturday decided to not levy tax on millet flour when sold in loose, but it will attract 5% tax when sold in prepackaged and labeled form, Union finance minister Nirmala Sitharaman said.

Extra Neutral Alcohol (also known as raw alcohol), used for making liquor will be kept out of the GST ambit, the council said. GST's law committee will examine suitable amendment in law to exclude it from the GST ambit. However ENA for industrial use will attract 18% GST.

GST on molasses has been cut from 28% to 5%. It will increase liquidity with mills and enable faster clearance of cane dues to sugarcane farmers.

"Liquor industry had a lot to cheer as Council decided to not levy GST on ENA supplied to alcohol manufacturers. Also it was clarified that job work for conversion of barley to malt would be liable to GST at 5% and not 18%. Decision to reduce GST to 5% on molasses would help the sugar industry and sugarcane farmers. Similarly reduction of GST on millet-based flour should bring relief for industry and health conscious people," said Pratik Jain, Partner, PWC.

In a bid to facilitate maritime trade and incentivise the use of coastal routes, the Council also recommended changes regarding foreign-going vessels. Previously, when a foreign-going vessel converted to coastal run, it was liable to pay 5% Integrated GST (IGST) on the value of the vessel.

However, the Council now announced conditional IGST exemption for foreign flag, foreign going vessels converting to coastal run, provided they are reconverted to foreign going vessels within six months. It also clarified that imitation zari thread will attract 5% GST rate. P7

The Council also decided to tax all goods and services supplied by the Indian Railways under the Forward Charge Mechanism, allowing them to avail input tax credit under the GST framework

Siddu: Caste census will not divide society

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Mysuru

CHIEF Minister Siddaramaiah on Saturday said that the caste census will not divide people, but it will help the government know their socio-economic status based on which schemes for their welfare can be formulated.

Refuting Prime Minister Narendra Modi's claim that the caste census will divide society, Siddaramaiah told reporters here that poverty alleviation programmes are formulated after considering certain communities' backwardness and their economic status.

He said that it is necessary for the government to have data related to political and socio-economic conditions of the people after 76 years of Independence. This data will help in bringing people from socio-economically backward castes into the mainstream.

On the Karnataka Permanent Backward Classes Commission's report, he said it will be out in November.

Insurance for tourists in two tiger reserves

BOSKY KHANNA
@Bengaluru/Mysuru

IN a first in the country, the Karnataka Forest Department launched an insurance scheme on Friday and Saturday for tourists visiting the Bandipur and Nagarahole tiger reserves.

"The increase in the number of cases of man-animal conflict has become a cause for concern among those visiting the two reserves. There have been instances of tourists questioning us if they are safe and secure in the reserves. To address their concern, we have launched this insurance scheme," said a forest official.

Bandipur Tiger Reserve Director S Prabhakaran said anyone booking a trip or a room in the reserves will be insured. On a safari bus ticket, an additional Rs 10 will be collected as insurance premium. However, the corpus amount of insurance is Rs 1 crore. On an average 1.4-1.5 lakh tourists visit Bandipur annually, he said.

₹70 cr per annum scam in Bescom, alleges forum

DEVARAJ B HIREHALLI @Bengaluru

ALLEGATIONS of irregularities in awarding contracts for repairing transformers in 45 centres in as many taluks under the Bengaluru Electricity Supply Company (Bescom) have come to light. This infraction could cause the government a loss of around Rs 70 crore per annum as the annual expenditure for repairing transformers will go up from around Rs 60 crore to Rs 135-140 crore, according to an organisation that has filed a complaint before the Lokayukta.

The allegation is that many of the 45 successful bidders had applied for tenders at a centre with the same internet protocol (IP) address in Bengaluru. The bids have been applied allegedly under the guidance of three contractors cum bidders, who are said to have "raised money" to be paid to the top brass in the Energy Department, stated the organisation, Raitha Hitharakshana Vedike. Apparently, the department has already started issuing contracts to the 45 contractors, it added.

Director, technical wing, Bescom, HG Ramesh told The New Sunday Express that the issue has come to his notice. "An internal inquiry has begun with the help of cybersecurity police," he said, adding that private parties have filed a complaint before the Lokayukta. But Chief General Manager (Operations), Bescom, Nagaraj, categorically denied any irregularities and said, "Nothing of that sort has happened." P7

CARRYING TRADITION FORWARD

Madikeri Dasara is a platform utilised by hundreds of youth to showcase their passion towards art by creating magic through mythological effigies and tableaux

PRAJNA GR @ Madikeri

AN electrician, a plumber, an autorickshaw driver, a civil worker, a realtor – they wear different hats on their professional front. But the harmonious love for arts unites them under the banner of 'Madikeri Dasara'. A unique show of art, passion, devotion, and stardom, Madikeri Dasara is a platform that is utilised by hundreds of art-loving youth, who otherwise are busy with their routine jobs.

"The festivity gives us an opportunity to showcase our true passion. While we are lost in our professional world most of the year, we quit everything for two months to satisfy our craze for arts," says Vivek Alaga, an auto driver. For the past five years, he has been taking a two-month break from riding his autorickshaw during Dasara and indulging himself in this creative therapy. In his alter ego, Vivek is an effigy sculptor, bringing into shape the Gods and demons from mythology.

Madikeri Dasara is known to be a class apart in its celebrations. The festivity that starts with the traditional karaga utsava ends with a bash of a live tableau show, put up by 10 temple committees.

On the night of Vijayadashami, Hindu mythology comes alive in stories narrated through tableaus. The celebration, however, is beyond religion, caste or class. It gives a platform for hidden artists in the city to make their name and fame.

"If we have to pursue arts, we have to look for funding. But during Madikeri Dasara, we get funds from temple committees to indulge in our passion," says Naveen Raghavan, a realtor who becomes an art director during the festival. He has been part of the Dasara tableau work for the last 15 years. The art has evolved over the years, he says.

Massive effigies of deities and demons are placed on two to three tractors with sound and light systems during the tableau parade. Naveen is among the artists who script, design, sculpt, and plan 20-minute shows. While the final show is short-lived, the efforts and results are long-lasting. "We start working on the tableau nearly three months before the Dasara," shares Sandeep, another art-smitten realtor. He says the work during the Dasara is like therapy after work and they (a team of over 20 artists from a single temple committee) spend time together for nearly three months to put out their best creative talents. For the upcoming Dasara, they got the idea for a 20-foot tableau, depicting a demon, from one of the mythological stories. He says, "We first decide the characters for the story. The script and dialogues are written and we sketch the characters on paper first. The effigies are then molded and decorated, which are later welded onto open tractors. Backed with background lighting and sound, we manually set the effigies on motion according to the story narration."

> I will be known to people through my art and this will be a good add-on to my resume for my passion to take full shape,
>
> Manjunath, artist

Several artists have been part of this creative pursuit since childhood. "I was in Class six when I and a team of boys joined two bicycles to build a platform to carry a Ganesha idol for the immersion during Ganesha Chaturthi," says Manjunath, who recognises himself as an artist even as he works as a plumber and an electrician. He designs the creative backdrops on tableaus and also carves effigies. His earnings from this passion covers his expenses, he adds. "I will be known to people through my art and this will be a good add-on to my resume for my passion to take full shape," he says. Despite the usual hardships and not earning big money, they take pride in what they do, as they feel recognised.

What started as still, paper mold effigies have now evolved into foam-made creations that move as per the narrative of the mythology.

"It is similar to directing a movie. We take a lot of effort and put in loads of creativity to stage a show," opines Sandeep. No one is a trained artist and it is only through experience that they have taught themselves to be unique. "When people call out my name, they know my work. The tableaus that I have been a part of have won prizes," proudly recalls Hemaraju, a civil worker who has been a part of Madikeri Dasara for over two decades.

"This year, we are doing a story that has Mahishi (the she-buffalo demoness in Hindu mythology) in it. She must have the face of a buffalo and her character must come alive. We will have to design her palace in her own world that is very different from ours. While mythology forms the base of our story, our imagination comes alive during the narration," he says. Several of these artists have been connected to a single temple committee for decades and this loyalty pushes them to work hard.

The tableaus are judged on the day of the event and the prizes won stay close to the hearts of these artists. "No one does it for money. It is to fulfil our passion and to earn a name in society," says Hemaraju.

Teja, Aravind, Sunil… There are a hundred other boys who emerge as artists during Dasara and this passion has passed on as high school-going children Prathvik, Vikyath, Amith, Rohan, and Sushanth are now working at tableau workshops. "We like to help in the creative bit after school. We are learning to carry the tradition forward," they share.

Plan to ease traffic woes along ORR in 100 days, DKS assures tech companies

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

DEPUTY Chief Minister and Bengaluru Development Minister DK Shivakumar on Saturday assured the corporates that a plan will be drawn to address the traffic problems on Outer Ring Road (ORR), in the next 100 days.

He was speaking at a meeting organised by the Outer Ring Road Companies and Associations (ORRCA) to address the traffic issues, as the 17 km stretch had witnessed unprecedented traffic clogging on September 27 and it took nearly five hours to reach normalcy.

DCM said, the government has come to the doorstep of corporations to listen to their issues and address them. "Our government will not allow people's time to be wasted on the roads. One-fifth of the city's revenue comes from the outer ring road industries, and we are aware of their importance. Our priority is to resolve the problem without causing any inconvenience to you, your employees and the residents of the area," said DK Shivakumar.

He further went on to add that, about 5.6 km long 45-meter wide road is being constructed to connect the new Peripheral Ring Road (PRR) from Mahadevapura zone ORR through Bhoganahalli, Gunjur and Varthur. Work on 4 km of this road has been completed. In the pending road works, railway over bridge works and land should be obtained from the forest department, and added that he has instructed the officials to take necessary steps and complete the pending work.

He added that six to eight high-traffic zones have already been identified and the traffic problems will be resolved on priority. In the next three months, the unauthorized shops that are causing problem, potholes, and traffic congestion areas will be identified and cleared without any political pressure. He also assured to address the encroachment on the Raj Canal issue and said the authorities are free to take action against encroachers.

Earlier, Bengaluru Police Chief B Dayanand had addressed the corporates and said, the police would introduce 'towing' of vehicles on 17 km stretch and will ban movement of HTVs during peak hours. He also said that in his personal view flyovers are not the solution, and pitched using public transport.

Spend CSR money on rural education: DyCM

To a question regarding taxes, DyCM clarified that, "It is enough if the citizens pay the taxes properly according to their property. As of now, the government has not thought of imposing any new tax". He also expressed dissatisfaction on the tax money not being collected according to the capacity, and said, "People and businesses should pay taxes according to their assets. Other business owners including IT companies in the city should spend their CSR money on rural education." He appealed the corporates to focus on schools in rural areas to ensure quality education. Shivakumar opined that people move from rural to urban centers to facilitate education to their children, and hence wants companies to focus on schools in rural areas.

ORRCA SUGGESTIONS TO CURB TRAFFIC
- Upgradation and maintenance of 22 Arterial Road Network
- Addressing the issue of potholes, footpaths, and bus stops
- Illegal parking and encroachment of roads
- Restriction of HTVs and zero tolerance on ban from 7 am to 10 pm on ORR
- ORR Metro, First/Last Mile connectivity and feeder buses at Metro stations
- Investment in Public Transport and Shared Mobility solutions

KSRTC launches 40 swanky, sleeper buses

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

TO meet the growing demand for more buses, the Karnataka State Road Transport Corporation (KSRTC) on Saturday launched 40 'Pallakki' (Palanquin), non AC sleeper buses.

Out of these 40 buses, 30 will ply within the state and 10 will be pressed for inter-state routes. The buses are fitted with cameras, and have other features like mobile charger, LED lights in each berth, dedicated place for footwear among others.

Chief Minister Siddaramaiah and Deputy Chief Minister DK Shivakumar flagged off the new fleet of buses. They also introduced 100 upgraded 'Suvarna Sarige' buses.

Transport and Endowment Minister, R Ramalinga Reddy told TNIE that due to Shakti Scheme, the demand for buses has increased and people want to travel in sleeper buses. Tenders were called and names like Pallakki and Uiyaale were suggested. Total 140 such buses will be operating the first batch of 40 buses has arrived. Each Pallaki bus costs Rs 44 lakh including GST," he said.

DK Shivakumar said that the buses have made 70.73 crore trips under the Shakti scheme giving free rides to women.

The wetlands expert said making Bengaluru liveable with good quality air and water is the solution for “Brand Bengaluru” and not the proposed tunnel road project. Excerpts.....

Several taluks in Karnataka are drought-prone. What are the factors affecting this?

We have to accept that climate changes are happening and it has manifested in the form of floods and droughts. Deforestation is also one of the major reasons for droughts. According to studies, there has been a 40% decline in the forest cover in the Western Ghats and 45% in the Cauvery basin. When this happens, the region loses its ability to sequester carbon which gets stored in the form of organic and inorganic form in the environment.

Does Western Ghats store carbon? How does it help?

Western Ghats is the storehouse of carbon. In the region, about 1.43 million giga tonnes of carbon has been stored over the years. If we look from an economic angle, it amounts to Rs 100 billion. We did this accounting to tell the world that our ecosystem is doing a wonderful job of sequestering carbon. However, today we have only 10% of evergreen forest left while the need is for 33%.

What is the impact of climate change on the environment and humans?

Studies show there will be an overall rise of 0.5% in the temperature in the Western Ghats. This will lead to increased vector borne and zoonotic diseases such as chikungunya, dengue and Covid. There will be major changes in rainfall patterns. That means cash crops will fail. Excessive rainfall will lead to floods as native species are on the decline. In catchment areas covered with native species around 60-65% of water gets filtered in during monsoon. And that water comes to the stream as the post-monsoon flow, but during floods there is no infiltration, leaving humans to pay a heavy price. Native species help with the percolation of water, whereas monoculture plantations don’t have much retention.

No water even in the catchment area of the Cauvery....

The catchment has lost the vegetation of the native species. Today as the forest cover has reduced and fragmented, water retention too has come down. Infiltration is lacking and the water is going down to the Bay of Bengal. Earlier, people had created water bodies, the lakes were managed in Karnataka and Tamil Nau catchments. But today, large areas are left unyielding. The practice of managing lakes has stopped in the name of development and various government schemes have made people lazy. On visiting villages we saw, people have stopped cultivating because of free schemes.

Is the Cauvery basin being mismanaged?

Mismanagement is a serious issue and it’s happening everywhere, be it Cauvery, Varada or Sharavathi. For instance, Sharavathi had 68% evergreen forests in the 70s but it’s about 29% today. Degrading catchment and growing a monoculture plantation makes only a few people rich, whereas maintaining catchment integrity makes every farmer rich, as it gives water and better yield. That is what needs to be done. Karnataka was at the forefront in the 80s and we had excellent watershed programmes, focusing on soil and water conservation and maintaining the vegetation cover was a priority. Today we are not talking about it.

Is Mekedatu a solution to the Cauvery water-sharing issue?

You can’t commit another mistake to cover up multiple mistakes. Mekedatu will be another disaster. It will submerge 5,000 hectares of forest, where the hydrological service amounts to 100 tmcft of water. Is removing 100 tmcft of water, spending Rs 5,000 crore, looting the timber and storing 65 tmcft of water a wise decision? It will also lead to forest fragmentation and aggravate man- animal conflicts, due to which local people will suffer. If the services provided by the forest ecosystem are considered, Mekedatu’s net worth is about Rs 1,000 billion.

What has to be done to meet Bengaluru’s drinking water needs?

Bengaluru receives 700-800 mm rainfall annually, which amounts to 15 tmcft. City requirement is 18 tmcft. You already have 70% of required water. The best option is to focus on 200 city lakes and desilt them. It helps retain rainwater and recharge groundwater. If you have 18 tmcft of water, you are also generating the same amount of wastewater. If that is recycled, you will get additional water. So we will have 31 tmcft, which is a surplus.

Is the ecosystem supply value of the state decreasing?

Satellite images show that there is a fast degradation of forests. For example, Uttara Kannada district has the distinction of having the highest forest cover in India. In the 70s, its forest cover was 80%, but today it has reduced to 32%. The ecosystem supply value, which was Rs 2,400 billion in 2005 has now reduced to Rs 1,800 billion. Similarly, the net value of forests has also decreased. That is why we insist on moving towards green GDP, where everything is taken into account.

What will be the impact of green drought over the years?

These are the implications of water scarcity. We should have moved towards climate-resilient crops, but are pushing more towards water-intensive crops. You will have green but not productivity. Based on the climatic conditions of the region, farmers should be encouraged to grow drought or climate-resilient crops. Farmers moving from commercial to climate-resilient crops should be incentivised.

What are your thoughts on the government’s initiative to plant one crore saplings in a year?

The initiative doesn’t seem to be implemented effectively.

There is mismanagement across the system that can only be fixed when people responsible for it are held accountable.

You mentioned penalising for pollution. How can this be effectively enforced?

Under the Water and Air Act, individuals and industries are required to pay for the pollution they generate if it exceeds specific thresholds. The Polluter Pays principle is similar to how emitting vehicles are penalised. Similarly, industries should also be penalised.

What about KC Valley and how the water quality has affected the lives of the people living there?

Drinking water projects are of paramount significance and require tertiary treatment for their heavy metal content. A similar approach has been successfully implemented in the case of Jakkur Lake, which had high nitrate levels, a known carcinogen. It is advisable to apply the same methodology to other lakes that are still suffering from contamination, particularly those receiving untreated sewage water. Implementing the constructed wetland approach, as done in Jakkur Lake, can prove effective. Additionally, it is beneficial to cultivate commercially viable crop species in these constructed wetlands.

The government has been discussing the construction of wetlands for the past 5-10 years. What is the current status of those initiatives?

While we do have plans in place, the execution has been lacking. An example of this is the KC Valley project. Waste management typically involves three levels, but for addressing the issue of heavy metal content, tertiary treatment is the most effective solution. This is not being done.

The government is now looking at decongesting the city through various projects, will it work?

When we talk about Bengaluru, it is an unplanned city. Green cover has dropped from 68% to 3%. We have 14,78,000 trees for a population of 95 lakh. There is one tree for seven people. We breathe out 540-980 gm of carbon dioxide. We have oxygen deficiency in our city. Even before Covid, I know many elderly people who used oxygen cylinders. I have been telling the government to not come up with ad-hoc measures. These tunnel roads are just tactics to loot money. We should invest in other districts like Kalaburagi and introduce cluster-based development. We should not let the government have unilateral decision-making, public participation is critical.

The Central government had pitched linking of rivers, what are your views on that?

All these ideas are developed by groups of people sitting in AC chambers and who lack expertise. You might connect the river, but what is the guarantee that you will get water and livelihood to people associated with fishing? It is a foolish idea. Instead, there should be a decentralised harvesting structure to catch rainwater and use it. Had we done this downstream of the Cauvery belt, there would not have been a crisis even during the drought period.

EXPRESS Dialogues

What are your views on the Cauvery water sharing crisis?

Politicians should not be a part of Cauvery decision making. In the US, Mexico and other places, the Joint Commission does not include politicians and it works. Similarly, Tamil Nadu and Karnataka governments should work on water harvesting structure and do watershed programmes in the Cauvery basin.

The government spoke about the Yettinahole lift irrigation project. Still things are not happening.

This is because of poor planning. The government had assured people of 24 tmcft of water. When I did the budgeting and auditing in Nethravathi, I found that only 12.85 tmcft was available. Out of this, 9 tmcft is required for local people for growing crops. Water is also required for fishing. Only 0.85 tmcft is left. When it was conceptualised, the government said it was a Rs 13,000 crore project. Now, it has increased to Rs 24,000 crore. To transfer only 0.85 tmcft of water, why does the government need to spend Rs 13,000 crores? It should have another agenda. There is a contractors-politician nexus.

What are your views on Brand Bengaluru?

I don’t understand this concept. Brand Bengaluru without a vision is going to be a big failure. The root cause for the poor state of the city is because of political involvement. Only when we plan to make the city liveable there is a scope for Brand Bengaluru. There is no water in places, people are fighting, there is no good oxygen in the city, the air is polluted. We have failed to improve public transport. Garbage littering continues. Untreated waste water is entering lakes. We should stop the idea of more roads, flyovers, tunnels and other unwanted projects. People should not be deprived of basic amenities. When everyone in Bengaluru is happy and healthy, that will be Brand Bengaluru. When people can travel in the city without wasting time in traffic, that is the sign of Brand Bengaluru. We should manage the city ruthlessly, shift major industries and decongest the city, make a carrying capacity report of roads stating how many people can reside here and allow only that many people to be there. GDP or investment should not be the criterion, but livability should be.

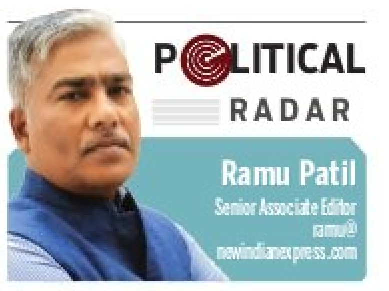
Do you think the city has failed in dealing with solid waste management?

We should have implemented the decentralized waste management system. We have done a survey of 3,000 households and it shows that 70% of waste is organic, while 12% is plastics and others. When segregation is done at source, a large chunk of this problem is solved. I had suggested to the mayor to incentivise segregated waste collection. Decentralising waste and treating the organic fraction is the best solution because our waste is organic. Let us not look to the West to ape them for energy from the waste sector. First let us segregate organic waste and treat it.

What do you have to say about Bengaluru architecture?

Glass facades are good for European countries, where the temperature is cooler, but not for our temperate regions. Our engineers have just replicated them in Bengaluru, Chennai, Hyderabad and Mumbai. Our studies show that in normal buildings, if electricity consumption is 700 to 1,200 units per person annually, in glass buildings, it increases to 14,000 to 17,000 units per year. It is ten times more electricity consumption due to wrong architecture. Due to this, there is also a rise in electricity consumption and warming of the earth.

CASTE SURVEY: SIDDU’S GAMBLE, OR SAFE PLAY?



Ramu Patil
Senior Associate Editor
ramu@newindianexpress.com

THE Congress and its I.N.D.I.A (Indian National Developmental Inclusive Alliance) bloc sees the caste survey as a potent political instrument to take on the BJP and the National Democratic Alliance (NDA) ahead of the 2024 Lok Sabha polls.

Now, with the State Permanent Backward Classes Commission set to submit its socioeconomic survey report to the State Government by the end of November, the Siddaramaiah government could use it as a tool to hit at the very core of the BJP’s political strategy of appealing to pan-Hindu unity. It would try to further consolidate the gains made after implementing the guarantee schemes, which include putting money directly into the hands of BPL families.

At the national level, it could help the party to showcase the “Karnataka model” of social justice and not let its I.N.D.I.A brigade partner and Bihar Chief Minister Nitesh Kumar take all the credit by releasing a caste survey report that put Other Backward Classes (OBC) at 63 %.

After its win in the May 10 assembly polls, the Congress is hoping to emulate its Karnataka Model of electioneering and governance in other election-bound states as well as during the Lok Sabha polls. Every step taken by the Siddaramaiah government indicates the party’s larger strategy for the Lok Sabha polls.

Since Siddaramaiah is a votary of social justice and strongly argues for increasing the reservation quota to provide better opportunities for the backward classes, he may take the gamble by accepting the report and spelling out the government’s plan of action. That can help the CM to position himself as a strong OBC leader in Congress not just in Karnataka but also at the national level, besides consolidating his hold on the AHINDA (a Kannada acronym for Minorities, Backward Classes, and Dalits).

His government recently approved the recommendation of the Justice Bhaktavatsala Commission to grant 33% reservation for Other Backward Classes (OBCs) in urban local bodies (ULBs) and panchayat elections.

Siddaramaiah’s decision to commission the Socio-Education Survey during his first stint as Chief Minister between 2013 and 2018 could come in handy now. The State Permanent Backward Classes Commission, which was then headed by H Kantharaju, did extensive work. The report was submitted to the government when HD Kumaraswamy was the Chief Minister in the Janata Dal (Secular)-Congress coalition government in 2018. However, it was not accepted due to a technical issue — the secretary of the commission had not signed the report. It has been lingering on since then. Now the incumbent chairman Jayaprakash Hegde, a BJP government appointee, is set to submit the report before his retirement at November-end — just months before the Lok Sabha polls.

The Congress strategists could be hoping that it will help the party subdue the BJP’s pan-Hindu-unity strategy as well as Prime Minister Narendra Modi’s charisma by assuring OBCs of better representation.

Although the details of the report are not yet known, the number of OBCs is expected to be much higher than other communities.

But, it is not a zero-risk strategy, especially when you need to weigh any decision from the perspective of its electoral implications. The report could open a Pandora’s box by creating discontent among the politically dominant Lingayats and Vokkaligas.

Congress certainly cannot afford to antagonize either of the two communities. If reactions to Congress veteran and All-India Veerashaiva Mahasabha president Shamanur Shivashankarappa’s remarks on officers belonging to the Veerashaiva-Lingayat community getting a raw deal in Siddaramaiah’s administration is anything to go by, the party should be extra cautious on its stand.

Leaders from both the dominant communities had expressed their ire when reports based on parts of the survey contents were allegedly leaked a few years ago.

BJP-JDS forging an alliance for the LS polls could also force the CM to rethink taking the gambit on the caste survey. While JD(S) enjoys support of a section of the Vokkaligas in the Old Mysuru region, Lingayats in North Karnataka back the BJP. Congress needs support from both these dominant communities along with OBCs if it has to better its 2019 performance.

Also, the BJP, which depends heavily on the charisma of PM Modi (who belongs to OBC), is likely to portray him as the tallest OBC leader in the country to counter Congress’s OBC narrative.

Indicating the stand BJP is likely to take on the issue, its state unit general secretary N Ravi Kumar had remarked that Siddaramaiah is the only OBC leader in Congress, and the party hasn’t made any OBC leader as DyCM.

As pressure mounts, it will be a test for Siddaramaiah’s commitment as a champion of the backward classes and his acumen to leverage the report for the party’s gains at the LS polls.

My govt believes in Basava philosophy: CM

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Mysuru

CHIEF Minister Siddaramaiah on Saturday said that he believes in the philosophy of 12th century social reformer Basavanna and his government is making honest efforts to walk in that path. He said the guarantee schemes in the state were influenced by the teachings of Basavanna.

He was speaking at the Basava Jayanti celebrations organised by the Akhil Bharat Veerashaiva-Lingayat Mahasabha in Mysuru.

Recalling that he took oath as the CM in 2013 on Basava Jayanti, Siddaramaiah said society should not be fragmented on caste lines and should become Vishwamanava.

CM Siddaramaiah offers tributes to Basavanna at Basava Jayanti celebrations in Mysuru on Saturday. Suttur Seer Sri Shivarathri Deshikendra Swami, and ministers HC Mahadevappa and Eshwar Khandre look on | UDAYASHANKAR S

He said the four-tier caste system should go and society should be built on social equality. He said that Sharanas preached in the layman’s language and propagated a casteless society, equality and universal brotherhood. Sharanas were the first to practice democracy in the 12th century, he added.

He said that Basavanna and his followers worked for the empowerment of the poor and representation was given to all communities and awakened people through vachana shaithya with a focus on humanity and encouraged intercaste marriage. “The upper caste was intolerant towards Basaveshwara and his progressive thinking revolted against him. But it is unfortunate that the socio-economic disparity has continued for centuries,” the CM added.

Siddaramaiah recalled that Basavanna and Dr BR Ambedkar had warned that the people suffering from humiliation, injustice, and exploitation will destroy the corridors of power if inequality continued to exist in society. He also assured funds for the construction of Basava Bhavan in Mysuru.

‘K’taka sought ₹4,860 cr for drought relief’

“THE commission headed by Kantharaj conducted the caste census and the then chief minister HD Kumaraswamy refused to accept its report. I have spoken to the present chairperson of the Commission who has agreed to submit the report in November. The government will think of categorisation of Backward Classes only after the report is submitted to it,” he said.

Siddaramaiah said that his government has sought Rs 4,860 crore from the Centre as drought relief. Standing crops on 42 lakh hectares of land in the State have been damaged. The legislators and deputy commissioners have been told to give all information on crop loss to the Central teams touring the State.

Asked why the teams are not visiting drought-hit areas in the Cauvery basin, he said they will visit 11 districts. “We can’t ask them to visit the Old Mysuru region or all districts. They have been apprised of the severity of drought in the Cauvery basin also. We are hopeful of the teams presenting a proper report on the crop losses incurred by farmers of the State,” the CM added.

‘No dearth of funds to implement schemes’

On whether the drought will have any impact on the guarantee schemes, Siddaramaiah said there is no dearth of funds to implement them.

He said there is no proposal to grant licenses for new liquor shops in the State. On Deputy Chief Minister DK Shivakumar’s claims that opening of new liquor shops will lead to employment generation, Siddaramaiah said that it is his (Shivakumar’s) personal opinion. The government will go by the public opinion, he added.

On the celebration of Mahisha Dasara atop the Chamundi Hills, he said that it was celebrated in the past and the district administration will take a call on the matter.

He refused to react to Veerashaiva leader and senior Congress MLA Shamanur Shivashankrappa’s allegation that officials from the community have been given a raw deal in government departments.

Prof presses accelerator instead of brake, crashes car into 3 at college

Condition of one student said to be critical; others sustain minor injuries

RISHITA KHANNA @Bengaluru

The car rammed a tree after hitting two students and a guest faculty member at Maharani Cluster University for Women on Seshadri Road on Saturday

PANIC gripped the premises of Maharani Cluster University for Women on Seshadri Road opposite Freedom Park when a 52-year-old English professor ran his car into two students and one guest faculty member around 9.45 am on Saturday. The condition of one of the students is said to be critical but stable.

The professor while proceeding to park his car inside the university premises is suspected to have sped up by pressing the accelerator instead of the brake pedal. The two students were walking to their classes when the accident occurred. The three injured along with the driver professor — who also sustained injuries — were rushed to St Martha's Hospital nearby.

Following the incident, all the classes were suspended and the students were sent back. However, some exams that were already scheduled were allowed to proceed. The jurisdictional High Grounds traffic police registered a case and are investigating.

The incident occurred when the professor, H Nagaraj, after signing the attendance sheet was driving towards the Arts college, located within the same premises, to park his car, said Dr K Ramachandra, the principal of Arts and Commerce college.

Ramachandra as well as Sachin Ghorpade, Deputy Commissioner of Police - Traffic (North), who visited the spot, confirmed that the professor while driving the car pressed the accelerator instead of the brake pedal, resulting in the accident. Eyewitnesses told TNSE that seconds before the car ran into the three and crashed into another car, Nagaraj was heard screaming in panic to alert others that something had gone wrong with his vehicle.

The vehicle also collided with another car, whose owner is another faculty member who had parked and left the car seconds before the incident happened.

The injured have been identified as Ashwini, 19, a resident of RT Nagar, Nandupriya, 19, who is staying at the hostel on the premises, and Jyothi, 37, the guest faculty at the music department. Ashwini is in her first-year BCom, while Nandupriya is a first-year student of BSc data science.

Ashwini has sustained multiple injuries, with her left hand and both legs fractured. She was later shifted to a private hospital in Vasanthnagar. Nandupriya and Nagaraj sustained minor injuries and are currently under treatment, said a medical officer at St Martha's Hospital where they were rushed to.

DAYLIGHT AUTO ROBBERY

Cops zero in on driver, say will arrest him soon

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE Subramanyanagar police, investigating the robbery case of a 40-year-old hearing-impaired auto passenger, have identified the accused auto driver.

The police, after going through a number of CCTV cameras in the vicinity of the incident near Metro Cash and Carry, managed to identify the registration number of the auto that was attached to an aggregator.

Meanwhile, the condition of the victim, Jeetendra B Shah, is stable and he has been shifted to the ward from the Intensive Care Unit.

Deputy Commissioner of Police (North) Saidulu Adavath told The New Sunday Express that the accused auto driver has been identified and will be arrested shortly. "The auto driver has been identified after identifying the registration number of the auto which he was driving," the DCP added.

Shah was robbed of his wallet containing cash, his mobile phone and hearing aid. After robbing Shah, the accused pushed him out of the moving autorickshaw, leaving him paralysed and unconscious.

The incident took place around 10 am on Thursday near Metro Cash and Carry at Yeshwanthapura.

The victim, who works as a manager with an online bus ticketing platform, booked the auto around 9.30 am through an app from Majestic to a residential apartment complex on 2nd Main in Goraguntepalya.

The victim's sister, Ketki A Thakkar, said, "Since my brother has undergone surgeries, it is too early to say that he is in a stable condition. We do not know how long it will take for him to stand on his feet. I do not want to risk his life by talking about him. The incident has completely shaken us."

Couple held for targeting senior citizens

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

A habitual criminal and his live-in partner, who used to target senior citizens by offering them beverages laced with sedatives, have been arrested by the Malleswaram police.

Once the victims fell unconscious, the accused would escape with their valuables. The main accused would then hand over the ornaments to his live-in partner who would sell them. The duo, along with their associates, were earlier arrested in an abduction case. The accused had kidnapped the founder of a private school in February 2019.

The accused are M Karthik and Manjushri of Rajajinagar. They were recently arrested for sedating and robbing the owner of a condiments shop near Mantri Mall in Malleswaram. Karthik was also involved in a murder case. The police recovered 115 gram of gold ornaments worth about Rs6.5 lakh from the accused.

S'mogga cops register suo motu case against Puttila

SHIVAMOGGA: Rural police registered an FIR against Hindutva activist Arun Kumar Puttila for making a provocative statement in the riot-affected area of Ragigudda in the city. Puttila allegedly asked Hindus to store swords at home and called for the shift from worshipping tools like screwdrivers and spanners to veneration of swords. Sources stated that the activist has been booked for promoting disharmony and enmity between religious groups (IPC section 153A), intentionally and maliciously hurting religious sentiments (IPC section 295A) and for making statements conducing to public mischief (IPC section 505). Shivamogga Rural Police registered a suo motto case against Puttila. Puttila allegedly stated that the state government granted permission to display swords during the Eid Milad procession at Ragigudda. "The government appears to endorse actions that are attack on Hindus. We also have sharp weapons. If the situation arises, Hindus are ready to retaliate with those weapons... ," he allegedly remarked. ENS

Cracker shop owner didn't have permission for godown: Pant

SOME adjoining shops were also damaged. The fire broke out when crackers were being unloaded from a truck that arrived from Tamil Nadu. The crackers were being stored at the godown for the Deepawali festival next month. Crackers worth around Rs 5 crore were burnt, they added.

Deputy Chief Minister DK Shivakumar, who visited the godown, said that a detailed inquiry will be conducted. "Officers told me that permission was given only for the cracker shop. A compensation of Rs 5 lakh will be given to the family of those killed in the blaze from the Chief Minister's Relief Fund," he added.

Kamal Pant, Director-General of Police, Fire and Emergency Services, said that the shop owner had no permission for the godown.

A Narayanswamy, local MP and Union Minister, who visited the spot, said permission was granted only to sell crackers. Action should be taken against the local police and revenue officials for allowing the shop and the godown at the same place.

Fire force personnel at the cracker shop in Attibele on Saturday

Central Range IGP BR Ravikanthe Gowda confirmed that 12 people died in the blaze. Police and fire force personnel could not enter the godown till midnight because of the fire. A team from the forensic science laboratory also visited the godown.

Bengaluru Rural Superintendent of Police Mallikarjun Baladandi said the injured shop owner and workers were admitted to hospitals on Hosur Road.

Dr KT Ramesh, head, Department of Plastic Surgery and Burns, Victoria Hospital, told TNSE that a man, who suffered burns at Attibele, was admitted to the hospital on Saturday evening. He suffered over 30% burns and is undergoing treatment.

The Attibele police have registered a case. Further investigations are on.

KERALA JDS REJECTS DEVE GOWDA'S DECISION TO JOIN NDA

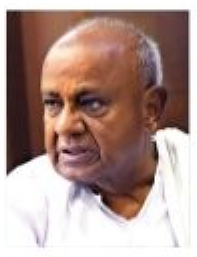
'There was no discussion regarding the change in policy within the party'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Kochi

THE Kerala unit of Janata Dal (Secular) has rejected the decision of party national president H D Deve Gowda to cooperate with the National Democratic Alliance (NDA).

A decision in this regard was taken at the state executive of the party which met in Kochi on Saturday.

"The state unit will stick to the original ideology of secularism and socialism and continue with the Left Front in Kerala," said JDS state president Mathew T Thomas.



The state executive also decided to get in touch with other state units which oppose the national president's decision.

"The decision of the national president is contrary to the resolution passed by the national conference of the party in Bengaluru in October 2022. There was no discussion regarding the change in policy within the party. The state executive decided not to accept the unilateral decision to cooperate with the National Democratic Alliance," he said.

Pointing out that the policies of the Congress are against the concept of democracy, he said the party will not be able to become an alternative for the Bharatiya Janata Party.

"The decision to cooperate with the BJP is in violation of the party's policy. The state unit had rejected a similar decision taken by the national leadership in 2006," said Mathew T Thomas.

Power Minister K Krishnankutty, party's Kerala general secretary Murali Das, secretary Jose Thettayil, party national vice-president CK Nanu and others attended the meeting.

Rahul as 'Ravan': Congress slams BJP

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

CONGRESS leaders and workers staged protests at several places in Karnataka against the BJP's depiction of former AICC president Rahul Gandhi as a 'new age Ravan."

In Bengaluru,Congress leaders, including Transport Minister and KPCC working-president Ramalinga Reddy and another KPCC working-president Saleem Ahmed held a protest at Freedom Park. They accused the BJP of resorting to such measures due to fear of losing in the elections. They also accused the BJP of using religion for politics.

Speaking to media persons, Deputy Chief Minister and State Congress president DK Shivakumar said BJP is depicting Rahul Gandhi as Ravan as they are sacred of his leadership and popularity.

After Rahul Gandhi's "Bharat Jodo" yatra, I.N.D.I.A alliance was formed and it is becoming stronger, he said. BJP leaders have not fully understood the Ramayana and that is the reason they are resorting to such measures, he added.

FM to officials: Release GST compensation due to Karnataka

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

KARNATAKA managed to bring to the fore the issue of releasing GST compensation of Rs 2,333 crore due to the state, at the 52nd Goods and Services Tax (GST) Council meeting chaired by Union Minister for Finance & Corporate Affairs Nirmala Sitharaman in New Delhi on Saturday.

Karnataka Revenue Minister Krishna Byre Gowda, who represented Chief Minister Siddaramaiah, claimed that as he raised the issue, Nirmala instructed the officials concerned to release the balance of GST compensation at the earliest.

"On our request, unlabelled millet mixes are exempt from GST. Labelled millet mixes will attract only 5% of GST instead of 12 to 18%," he said.

The GST Council recommended nil rate for food preparation of millet flour in powder form and containing at least 70% millets by weight when sold in loose form, and 5% if sold in pre-packaged and labelled form.

The state has been demanding the GST exemption on millets for a long time and the Council ceding to it is considered a breakthrough for farmers as it helps ragi growers who are predominant in the districts of Old Mysuru region.

As for the compensation, Gowda presented the state's case as advised by Siddaramaiah and insisted that the Finance Minister take action as the dues are yet to be paid despite the CAG audit authenticating it. Ahead of the GST Council meeting, Gowda had got a briefing from commercial tax department officials at a meeting on Wednesday. He had also also written to the GST Council to bring the state's demands on the agenda.

First release draft of UCC Bill, says Justice Nagamohan Das

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE Central government first needs to release a Uniform Civil Code (UCC) draft bill to understand its definition as there is no definition of UCC, either in the Constitution or in any judgments of courts, said Justice HN Nagamohan Das, former Karnataka High Court judge, here on Saturday.

"Different ministers talk about UCC inconsistently. The timing of UCC is questionable when the country is facing several burning issues, Jammu and Kashmir, Manipur, farmers and others that need urgent action by the government," he said.

He was speaking at a panel discussion organised by The Forum for Democracy and Communal Amity - Karnataka chapter (FDCA-K) in the city. Justice Das said the ancient religions still followed by people need to be revised and reformed by their respective leaders, keeping the changing social norms and values. "This will enable the environment within which UCC can be developed," he stated.

Justice V Gopala Gowda, former Supreme Court judge, said Uniform Civil Code will not be successful in India. "It is just a diversionary tactic of the government, which wants to gain from literate illiteracy. Neither political leaders nor bureaucrats are aware or interested in the constitutional philosophy and concepts," he said.

He added that even judges are vulnerable to only literal interpretation of the Constitution, instead of interpreting in a purposive way.

"The political party is demanding Uniform Civil Code, but in their heart, they oppose it. In a secular, multi-religious country like India, the Constitution states that customs are the basis of law, how can we override that," he asked.

Prof Ravivarma Kumar, former advocate general and senior counsel in Karnataka High Court, said all religions are fossilised and unwilling to change. "The leaders of the country must first lead the way to build scientific temper and shun all propagated unscientific views. In the absence of scientific temper, Uniform Civil Code is a mere election gimmick," he added.

Other panellists, including Jamaat-e-Islami Hind state president Dr Belgami Mohammed Saad and activist Cynthia Stephen, presented their views on UCC Bill.

Drought: No brides for farmers in these villages

Members of the inter-ministerial Central study team inspect an agriculture field in Gadag district on Saturday to assess the drought situation

RAGHOTTAM KOPPAR @Gadag

FARMERS in Gadag district are finding it hard to get brides as most parents are reluctant to marry off their daughters to farming households due to financial insecurity.

Though it's not a new issue in the region, it was raised again during the Central drought study team's visit to Gadag villages on Friday. Gojanur and surrounding villages have witnessed very few weddings in the past three years due to drought, the farmers told the team.

Many people are not agreeing to marry off their daughters to farmers as they have been suffering from financial losses for years because of climate change.

Some farmers said they are planning to migrate if they don't get any help from the government.

In the last three years, almost all wedding proposals have been cancelled because of the farming background of youth. While the condition is the same in most villages of Shirahatti, Mundargi, Lakshmeshwar, Ron and Gajendragad taluks, the most affected are those in Gojanur and surrounding rural areas, where farmers have suffered consecutive losses in the last three to four years.

A farmer's mother, who went to see a bride last week, said parents of the girl asked her to tell her son to find a job and only then would they be ready for the wedding.

NTCA says recent tiger deaths in Nilgiris not alarming

SV KRISHNA CHAITANYA @Chennai

THE National Tiger Conservation Authority (NTCA), in a report, has said the recent deaths of tigers, including of tiger cubs in Nilgiris in Tamil Nadu, were not alarming in the context of current population size growth and dispersal dynamics in the landscape. However, the report noted that information on tiger movement is inadequate and more detailed monitoring is necessary.

Mudumalai Tiger Reserve (MTR) and Nilgiris forest division were recently in the news as 10 tigers had died within 40 days, raising several concerns including of poaching. This prompted the NTCA to send a team to the area to conduct a detailed field appraisal and submit a report. Their report, a copy of which is with TNIE, concluded: "Deaths of these tigers are not alarming in the context of current population size, growth and dispersal dynamics in the landscape but unnatural causes such as poisoning and previous incidents of poaching are indicator of what may be expected in the landscape and accordingly, the management should gear up for preventive actions in the future." As per official data, there were 76 tigers in TN in 2006. The number rose to 306, according to the 2022 estimation. At the same time, the number of tigers in MTR increased from 51 in 2006 to 114 in 2022.

'IMPROPER DOCUMENTS UPLOADED ON E-PROCUREMENT SITE APPROVED'

BESCOM MD Mahantesh Bilagi said, "We followed all the processes as per the Act, and the aggrieved can approach the court. We will give a suitable reply to all concerned, including the Lokayukta."

The Vedike first filed a public interest litigation (PIL) before the Karnataka High Court, which disposed of the petition, saying the case is not in its ambit to conduct an investigation. It asked the counsel for the petitioner to withdraw the case.

The Vedike later filed the complaint before the Lokayukta on September 30. It also wrote to Energy Minister KJ George, Chief Secretary Vandita Sharma and Additional Chief Secretary Gaurav Gupta on October 6 seeking action.

Bescom increased the base price for bidding for this particular series of contracts from Rs 55,000 to Rs 62,537 for repairing transformers, from 25kv to 250 kv. The contract has been awarded to those who have quoted 5% above the base price, while for the last 30 years, it used to be below the base price. The Vedike alleged that the accused formed their own team of bidders and tactfully checked competition in all the 45 centres by ensuring only two compete with each other and others remain only for namesake. One quoted 5% above the base price, while another 15 per cent above. The contract went to the lowest bidder, it said. Bescom called the short-term tender on March 20 this year, and opened the bids on April 10. Forty-five bidders, who had quoted above the base price, got the contract, the Vedike said.

In the same notice, the tenders were called separately for five more transformer repair centres in Ramanagara, Huliyaru, Mayasandra, Nyamathi and Chitradurga. Here, the bids were won by those who quoted below the base price, claimed one of the aggrieved contractors, whose application was rejected.

The Vedike said there are also allegations that the applications of some bidders were rejected at the technical round itself. At the same time, incomplete or improper documents of some three to four contractors that were uploaded on the e-procurement site were approved. Later, those contractors were allowed to amend and provide correct documents manually, which is illegal, the Vedike said. The truth will come out if all these issues are investigated, it added.

CHORUS FOR CASTE CENSUS SIGNALS ECONOMIC DISTRESS

THE THIRD EYE

SHANKKAR AIYAR
Author of The Gated Republic, Aadhaar: A Biometric History of India's 12 Digit Revolution, and Accidental India
(shankkar.aiyar@gmail.com)

QUESTIONS about a caste-based census surfaced regularly in parliament for nearly two decades. The standard response till date has been: "The Government of India has not enumerated caste-wise population other than SCs and STs in the census since independence." The wall of ambiguity faces a politically challenging circumstance.

This week the government of Bihar set the cat among pigeons, unveiling the results of a survey of castes in the state. The findings of the 'Bihar Jaati Adharit Ganana' triggered a tsunami of reactions. The Bihar essay has reignited the debate on castes and quotas across India's social and political faultlines. The absolutes and ratios underlined by the survey have awakened hopes and triggered fears.

Unsurprisingly, there is a chorus from the Opposition for a national caste-based census. The "if, how and when" of such a census would depend on the trajectory of politics and stance of parties. The issue is already fodder for raucous rhetoric and will be debated through the assembly polls and the 2024 elections.

It is instructive that caste continues to catalyse political passions seven decades after independence and three decades after adoption of the Mandal Commission recommendations. To appreciate the centrality of caste in the political economy one must separate the signal from the noise. Yes, there is no disputing the quest to reshuffle the social and political hierarchy. But above all, the clamour signals distress at the bottom of the socio-economic pyramid.

Data illuminates and rivets the cause and the consequences. Consider the architecture of India's economy. Agriculture accounts for 18.3 percent of GDP and employs over 45 per cent of the workforce—simply put, nearly half the workforce depends on one-sixth of the national income. The average size of operational holdings is barely 1.08 hectares and has eroded yield and income. On August 1, the government informed parliament that the average monthly income of agricultural households across India was ₹10,218—₹4,895 in Jharkhand, ₹7,542 in Bihar and ₹8,061 in Uttar Pradesh.

The calls for a fair share of quota are not limited to backward classes. Even those viewed as "landed" and powerful—the Marathas, Patidars, Jats, Kapus—have in recent times agitated for a spot on the quota map. Driving this demand is the eroding viability of agriculture as an enterprise. The correlation between dependence on the rural economy and low per capita income is stark. The per capita NVA (net value added) for rural areas, at ₹40,925, is less than half that for urban areas at ₹98,435.

The gap between industrialised and agrarian states is reflected in national data. India's per capita income is ₹196,983. Topping the list is Telangana at ₹308,732—followed by Karnataka at ₹3.01 lakh and Haryana at ₹2.96 lakh. In glaring contrast, per-capita GSDP in Bihar is nearly a fourth of the national average at ₹54,383; that of Uttar Pradesh is ₹79,396 and Jharkhand is ₹80,060. The impact of lower income and resultant inequality is manifest in asset ownership. The 77th Round NSS report on debt and investment reveals that the top 10 percent of households owns over half the assets while the bottom 50 percent owns less than 10 percent of the assets.

The landscape of need is illustrated by the expansion of welfare. The rural employment scheme or MGNREGS was legislated in 2005 to bridge the gap between hope for employment and reality. In 2023 it has over 26.59 crore registered workers. In the past three years, the average outgo of MGNREGS has been around ₹1 lakh crore—the total expenditure since inception has been over ₹9.68 lakh crore. The National Food Security Act is ten years old. This year, the government has allocated about ₹2 lakh crore to provide free rations to 81.35 crore individuals. Add programmes administered by the states—from old age pensions to cash payments to women. The National Payments Corporation has as many as 7,517 codes registered for direct payment transfers.

Characteristically, young India views a government job via quota as the way out of the rut of doles and poverty. The aspiration is challenged by a curious Indian paradox—the coexistence of joblessness and vacant government posts—perpetuated by political apathy. It is estimated that there are over 2 million posts vacant across central and state governments. This July, the government informed Rajya Sabha that there are 9.64 lakh posts vacant across departments in the central government. Add to this over 12 lakh teacher posts—there are 117,285 single-teacher schools across India—and those of healthcare workers and police personnel left vacant across states.

It is true that addressing asymmetries of opportunity and income calls for a reconfiguration of the current paradigm of reservations. It is equally true that the exercise cannot stop at merely identifying those in need. Diagnosis alone is scarcely sufficient to heal the polity. The parties chorusing the demand for enumeration must present a credible policy prescription—for modernising agriculture, for investing in human capital, for employment generation—to propel growth and harness demographic dividend. The quest for equity must be enshrined at the altar of an ambitious plan for growth without which quotas will at best represent a post-dated promise.

PUNDITOCRACY'S pugnaciousness destabilises democracy's diktats. The large influence wielded by a small cabal on the national and even global discourse is a menace to merit. With the world being reduced to a global village, they try to subvert the process in filling institutional posts and meddling in policy framework. In India, they are now busy drafting architectural plans of the 16th Finance Commission. The term of the 15th Commission has expired. According to the Constitution, the next one has to be appointed by November for a three-year term. The commission's cardinal responsibility is to frame the distribution of financial resources between the Centre and the states. But during the past few years, it has been denying states the funds they think they deserve. Macro finance wizards feel that the commission's composition has politicised it.

The Prime Minister's Office (PMO) has launched a talent hunt for new members in consultation with Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman to find people who pass the dual test of merit and desirability. Since the 16th commission's report is expected in 2026, the recommendations would raise a political storm and become yet another test for cooperative federalism and an issue for the 2029 Lok Sabha elections. For the prime minister, the choice of the commission head is between a credible political leader with an economic and finance background, or a retired civil servant with a proven record of loyalty and flexibility.

All the prime minister's men

Historically, only politicians were chosen as Finance Commission chairmen. Of the fifteen so far, around ten have been eminent political leaders. Nehru chose West Bengal leader K C Neogy to head the first commission. There were heavyweights such as Brahmananda Reddy, Y B Chavan and K C Pant. The trend of politically accredited commission chiefs continued till 1998, when Atal Bihari Vajpayee stopped the trend. That year he appointed Prof A M Khusro, an economist, as chairman. Since then only technocrats or economists have occupied the chair. Dr Manmohan Singh picked Dr C Rangarajan, Vijay Kelkar, and half-economist Y V Reddy, a former civil servant.

SOUMYADIP SINHA

Modi has stuck to the path. He appointed NK Singh, a retired IAS officer and man for all seasons, as chairman of the 15th Commission in 2020—but for the wrong reasons. Singh had served as revenue secretary, secretary in the Prime Minister's secretariat, and member of the Planning Commission during the NDA regime. He joined the Nitish Kumar bandwagon later and became a JD(U) Rajya Sabha MP. At 79 years of age, the Teflon babu is perhaps the oldest chairman of the commission. The well-connected ex-bureaucrat with excellent foreign and domestic contacts has his foot in almost every political and corporate door. The buzz is that even at 82, he may get an unprecedented, record-breaking second term.

Since retired civil servants are the flavour of the saffron season, another seasoned mandarin, Rajiv Mehrishi, is floating about in the corridors of power. Like Singh, Mehrishi is a darling of the global corporate network and the lotus leadership. An IAS officer from the Rajasthan cadre, he was home secretary, finance secretary and Comptroller and Auditor General of India during the BJP government. Though active in the right circles, he has maintained a low profile, which is an essential qualification to get a plum post in Modi sarkar.

Should the PM want to accommodate political loyalists as commission chiefs, the frontrunners would be former TMC member and Union minister Dinesh Trivedi, who resigned his Rajya Sabha seat to join the BJP, and Bihar's former deputy chief minister and finance minister, Sushil Modi. But don't write off N K Singh's chances of getting a record second term. That said, the new Finance Commission will wield much less power, as the GST Council has taken over the major responsibility of revenue distribution.

A capitalist compromise

Modi is not known for banality, but this time it was just an office order. An innocuous memo from the PMO extended the term of the nine-member PM's Economic Advisory Council (EAC-PM) till further orders. The council, which has three full-time and six part-time members, is tasked with advising the PM on macroeconomic and social infrastructure issues. Incidentally, half of them are former bankers or mutual fund managers. Chairman Bibek Debroy is a primarily home-grown economist, while his colleagues have been employed and trained abroad. Other than Debroy, the other two full-timers are Sanjeev Sanyal and Dr Shamika Ravi. The part-timers are Rakesh Mohan, Dr Sajjid Chinoy, Dr Neelkanth Mishra, Nilesh Shah, Prof T T Ram Mohan, and Dr Poonam Gupta. Interestingly, the EAC-PM is dominated by bankers, former and current, or worthies connected with the Brookings Institute, a US think-tank. Sanyal, Mishra and Shah are associated with foreign and Indian banks. Rakesh Mohan, Ravi and Gupta, who have worked for the Indian government and many academic institutions, possess American university degrees. It has to be said that their expertise and foreign connections have worked in India's favour. Recently, J P Morgan announced that India's government bonds will be included in its Government Bond Index-Emerging Markets. According to banking circles, this move could boost foreign investment in Indian mutual funds by around $30 billion. In the process, JP Morgan would fatten its wallet more. The credit for this significant decision has gone to Chinoy. However, eyebrows went up regarding Ravi when she was dropped earlier from the council as her name surfaced in an academic controversy.

Modi makes corrupt babus quake

After a lull of almost four years, the PMO is planning to launch a war on officers of doubtful integrity. It has targeted babus from the IAS, IPS, IRS and other allied services. The Modi government has been criticised for going after its political adversaries while mostly leaving bureaucrats untouched. A recent survey by a government agency has found that a large number of officials are not filing annual returns on their assets. Over 15 percent of IAS and IPS officers haven't complied with the mandatory instructions. When Modi came to power in 2014, he began purging officers with dodgy reputations. Many were either prematurely retired or prosecuted. Top of the list are officials from sensitive ministries such as home, finance, revenue, commerce, health and rural development. Can the sarkar afford to scratch the 'steel frame' on the eve of elections? Well, Modi is known for his insouciance to defiance and aggression towards destabilisers.

HOW THE PALLAVAS TOOK INDIA TO THE WORLD

OPINION

NANDITHA KRISHNA
Historian, environmentalist and writer based in Chennai

EVERY other visitor to Chennai visits Mamallapuram—that is, Mahabalipuram—to see the beautiful rock-cut caves and shore temples built by the Pallavas. But there is so much more to the Pallavas. They played an important role in shaping the history and heritage of the Tamil region.

The Pallavas lived through a time when there were four religions active in southern India: Jainism, Buddhism, Shaivism and Vaishnavism. Mahendravarman I—the talented 7th-century ruler who was a writer, painter, architect and musician, too—followed Jainism till he was converted to Shaivism by the saint Appar. While there are some early Pallava Jain cave temples, a profusion of cave and structural temples for Hindu deities appear during Mahendravarman's rule and thereafter.

The Pallavas introduced rock-cut architecture in South India in their early phase and free-standing structural temples in their later phase of building.

The rock-cut phase in the seventh century consisted of two groups of monuments. The Mahendra group consisted of pillared halls carved out of hills at Mandagapattu, Pallavaram, Mamandur and Trichy. The later Mamalla period saw some the greatest artistic achievements, with the descent of the Ganga and Arjuna's penance carved on two monolithic rocks as gigantic open-air reliefs on a vast canvas of sculpture.

The Pancha Pandava rathas are five monolithic free-standing constructions cut from solid granite and diorite rocks. Was this a workshop to transit from mud and wooden construction to stone? The Draupadi ratha resembles a mud hut with a thatched roof. Bhima ratha, with its vaulted barrel-like roof, and Nakula-Sahadeva ratha, with its pillared porch and elephant-back, resemble early house designs. The Arjuna and Dharmaraja rathas look like temples with carvings of Hindu deities, suggesting that they would be the future free-standing temples with Dravida vimanas that the Pallavas introduced at Mamallapuram (Shore temples) and Kanchipuram (Kailasanatha and Vaikuntha Perumal). The beautiful Pallava temples of Kanchipuram document their times, the Hindu religion, even musical instruments and history.

The arts were not the Pallavas' sole contribution. The Tamil script owes its origin to them. Pallava Grantha is derived from Tamil Brahmi and was in use from the 4th century CE. The script accompanied priests, monks and traders into Southeast Asia and evolved into local scripts such as the Balinese, Javanese, Khmer, Lao, Mon-Burmese and Thai. It evolved into the Grantha and Tamil scripts. Pallava Grantha is the first significant development from Brahmi, which combined rounded and rectangular strokes and added typographical effects, creating a very artistic script that still flourishes in Southeast Asia.

The Pallavas were the first Indian dynasty to rule foreign lands. People were encouraged to cross the seas for trade. These traders took Sanatan Dharma, Buddhism and Tamil culture to Southeast Asia. The Malay peninsula, Funan, Kambuja or Cambodia, Champa and Laos all contain Pallava influences. A 10th-century inscription records the story of a Cambodian sun-worshipping dynasty established by Kambu Swayambhuva, which resembles the origin myths of the Pallavas of Kanchi.

> The pioneering Pallavas were the first Indian dynasty to rule abroad. They not only took Tamil bloodlines, culture and art to Southeast Asia, but they spread the Grantha script too

In 550 CE, Simhavishnu sent a naval expedition to Sri Lanka and colonised Southeast Asia. Later kings of Kambuja were descended from the Pallavas, hence the 'varman' affixed to their names. In 730 CE, Pallava king Parameswaravarman died without an heir. However, the Pallava bloodline had survived in Cambodia through Simhavishnu's brother Bhimavarman. A royal delegation went to Kambuja and met Harivarman, Bhimavarman's descendant, offering his sons the throne. The youngest accepted and came to Kanchi to rule as Nandivarman II, who built the Vaikuntha Perumal temple, which has exquisite sculptures of Vishnu-Narayana and his avatars, and the story of the Pallavas, with distinctly southeast Asian faces at the coronation of Nandivarman II—the first time India "looked east" for a ruler. The world traded with Kanchipuram and the Chinese traveller Xuanzang visited its monuments.

Our knowledge of the Pallavas comes from inscriptions, coins, art and architecture and two dramas by King Mahendravarman I, Mata-vilaasa-prahaasana and Bhagavata-yugam, and works by the poets Dandin and Bharavi.

Yet, the origin of the Pallavas is a subject of debate. Their early inscriptions were in Sanskrit, in Prakrit script, suggesting that they were feudatories of the Satavahanas who ruled Maharashtra and Andhra Pradesh. Another theory proposes that they were descendants of Ilan Tiraiyan of Kanchipuram, son of the Chola king Killi and a Naga princess, daughter of the king of Manipallavam, from which they took their name. Originating in Kanchi, they expanded northwards. The last and most fantastic theory is that they were Persians, from the word Pahlava meaning Persian. It imbues a great Indian dynasty with some magical mystery.

Motivating quote

It is time Professor Swaminathan was honoured with the Bharat Ratna for his lifetime research on agriculture. He believed in what he did. When I was working on a childcare project, I asked him for an autograph in his book Wheat Revolution, which he had presented me. Professor Swaminathan quoted from the Bhagvad Gita: "You become what you sincerely aspire to become." It is a motivating quote all youths should adopt to achieve success.

Dr P Prema, Thanjavur

Deserving Ratna

Mr Modi's tribute to M S Swaminathan was excellent and thoughtful. In the fitness of things, Modi should take lead and announce the highest civilian honour, Bharat Ratna, for the scientist. In 1998 Union agriculture minister C Subramaniam received the Bharat Ratna for ushering in the Green Revolution and the deserving scientist was overlooked. Hope Modi will correct this anomaly. Honour delayed is honour denied.

Census clarity

Your edit page article on the caste census was refreshingly honest and the need of the hour. That said, the most essential requirement for empowering EBC and OBC communities is education, raising them to be on par with those belonging to the upper echelons. Seventy-five years of independence has not made inroads to facilitate education and employment commensurate to their qualifications. The lacuna that impairs their advancement includes an entrenched caste hierarchy. Empowerment of these communities is merely politics.

Caste caution

The caste census can turn dangerous. It can further divide Tamil society. Now the entirety of Tamil politics is based on the Brahmin and non-Brahmin divide. If a caste census if taken, every caste will demand its pound of flesh in the matter of admissions, recruitment, and political power sharing. We can have a caste census to know the population of each caste. But quotas should be given only to the marginalised, irrespective of their castes.

Mohan Natarajan, email

Not cooperative

Coming close on the heels of the Karuvannur cooperative bank frauds, news of a crisis in the Thennala cooperative bank in Malappuram is shocking. More cooperative banks in the state could be in trouble. It is an outright abuse and calls for deterrent punishment. These Kerala banks are actually commercial banks in the garb of cooperative credit societies. They should be urgently brought under external audit and the liquidity ratio requirements like other commercial banks. The societies badly need a tightening.

Political poses

Rahul Gandhi's political gambits are crossing limits. The latest is his karseva at the Golden Temple, Amritsar. His apparent openness and its optics are good. He should also do this in a temple like Guruvayur. But to what extent these will translate into votes is difficult to say. At the same time, the INDIA alliance is playing a dangerous game dividing society on caste lines by flagging the OBC card. Such a rat race will only do harm to the nation.

Medals matter

Kudos to the Indian contingent for bagging a record haul of medals at the Asian Games in China. India capped an extraordinary Saturday, claiming gold in the compound events, kabaddi, cricket and badminton to cross the 100-medal mark. India had pocketed 70 medals in the last edition in Indonesia, including 16 gold, 23 silver, and 31 bronze medals to post their best-ever performance. So this year is a big achievement. However, we have a long way to go before we can match strides with China, Japan and South Korea.

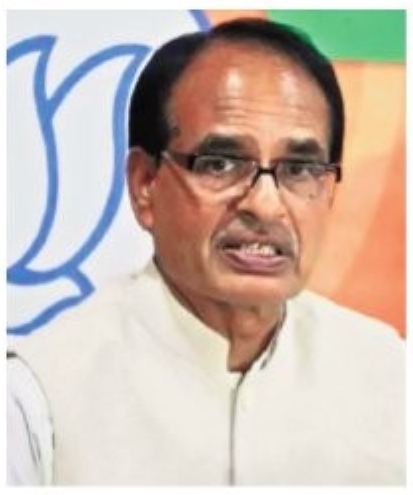
BJP, Cong lists on 'auspicious day'

Parties await end of Pitru Paksha to declare remaining candidates for Assembly polls

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bhopal



> The meeting of the party's central election committee (CEC) has been held today. Names of possible candidates for around 140 seats were discussed. The candidates will be finalized in the next six-seven days
>
> Kamal Nath, MP Congress chief

THE ruling BJP as well as the prime opposition Congress are awaiting the end of Pitru Paksha (fortnight dedicated to ancestors) to declare candidates for the coming assembly polls in Madhya Pradesh.

While the BJP has so far declared candidates for 79 out of the total 230 seats through three lists, the Congress is yet to name even a single candidate.

As per sources in the two main parties, the Pitru Paksha (which isn't considered auspicious) is followed by the Navratra (nine days dedicated to Goddess Durga) which is considered among the most auspicious periods as per Hindu religion. Owing to it, the two main players in the polls, are likely to declare their remaining lists in Navratri, which starts on October 15.

In Delhi on Saturday, the MP Congress chief Kamal Nath said, "The meeting of the party's central election committee (CEC) has been held today. Names of possible candidates for around 140 seats were discussed, but the final decision hasn't been taken. The candidates on those seats will be finalized in the next six-seven days." According to a senior state Congress leader, around 140 names have already been finalized by the party's screening committee and have been sent to the party's central election committee (CEC), but the final names will be made public in Navratri.

"Around 90-100 of these candidates have already been intimated by the party leadership and have already started working on the ground," the leader, while wishing not to be named, told this newspaper.

On the other hand the ruling BJP which is battling rising anti-incumbency of around 19 years rule too is likely to come out with multiple lists of remaining 151 candidates once the Navratri commences.

Importantly, the BJP had surprised all poll pundits and the opposition Congress by releasing its first list of 39 candidates on August 17. It was the first time that the ruling party had declared its list of candidates three to four months before the actual polls.

The party released its second list of 39 candidates on September 25, which again stunned all political observers, by naming seven sitting MPs, including three union ministers and the party's national general secretary Kailash Vijayvargiya, as candidates mostly from the assembly seats lost in the 2018 elections. On September 26, the party released its third list which named just one candidate.

While the party has already named seven sitting MPs as candidates in the assembly polls in its second list, party insiders claim that more sitting MPs and some more current and former union ministers could be named in the upcoming lists. Out of the 29 Lok Sabha members from the state, 28 are BJP MPs.

On September 26, the BJP had sprung surprise by coming out with 39-strong second list of candidates for the assembly polls. The candidates includd seven sitting Lok Sabha MPs, including three union ministers and party's national general secretary Kailash Vijayvargiya.

With this, the ruling party named 78 candidates against the total 230 seats in the state ruled by it for the past 19 years. Earlier on August 17, the BJP had named 39 candidates in its first list for the state where polls are likely in November. Importantly, the party hasn't till now named its longest serving CM Shivraj Singh Chouhan or any other leader as it's CM face in MP and is contesting the polls with PM Modi's face at the Centre.

Others should follow in Bihar footsteps on caste census, says Tejashwi

RAMASHANKAR @Patna

PRESSING the Centre to hold a Bihar-like caste census across the country, Bihar Deputy Chief Minister Tejashwi Prasad Yadav on Saturday said policies for all sections of the society could be formulated properly only when the actual representation in the population is known.

"Bihar government took the humanitarian work and conducted the caste census. Other states should do it too," Tejaswi said. On October 2, the Bihar government released the findings of the caste census which claimed that over 84 per cent of the population in Bihar comprises backwards including Extremely Backward Castes (EBC), Other Backward Castes (OBCs) and Scheduled Castes (SCs). The report was first-of-its-kind released since Independence.

Taking a leaf from Bihar, ruled by JD(U)-led grand alliance, also comprising RJD and Congress, the Rajasthan government-led by Congress' Ashok Gehlot has announced that it will conduct a similar exercise like Bihar if voted back to power. Moreover, Congress general secretary Priyanka Gandhi, while addressing an event, had promised the same in the poll-bound Chhattisgarh. Karnataka, which recently brought Congress to the helm, is too mulling over it.

Hitting at the opposition Bharatiya Janata Party for "criticising" caste-based survey and "questioning the authenticity" of the data, Tejashwi said, "If they [BJP] have questions regarding the survey or data, why don't they ask Prime Minister Narendra Modi to conduct a survey at the national level."

Over BJP president J P Nadda's claim that "regional parties will soon be finished", Tejaswi asked "Do Modi and Nadda, both outsiders, know more about Bihar than us? How centre will survive when regional parties are finished?"

JD (U) national general secretary Rajiv Ranjan said according to reports population of Extremely Backward Castes (EBCs) is 46 per cent against 36 in Bihar. State JD (U) president Umesh Kushwaha alleged even leaders like Jitan Ram Manjhi, Upendra Kushwaha and Chirag Paswan are speaking the language of BJP.

Mann's old video doing rounds on social media

After the arrest of Congress MLA Sukhpal Singh Khaira in an NDPS case of 2015 by Punjab Police, a video has gone viral which has been also shared by the Punjab BJP chief Sunil Jakhar. In the old video, chief minister Bhagwant Singh Mann, who was earlier AAP MP from Sangrur is allegedly accusing the then Akali government of political vendetta. Mann was talking about the same case in which Khaira has now been arrested by AAP-led Punjab government. He was heard saying in the video — an interview to a private TV channel — that there is no mention of Kharia's name in the FIR.

Vigilance Bureau sleuths had egg on their face

Sleuths of the Punjab Vigilance Bureau recently had to face some embarrassing moments after they nabbed a lookalike of former Punjab finance minister Manpreet Singh Badal. Badal was booked by the Vigilance Bureau and was evading arrest since the case was registered against him. The Vigilance Bureau got a tip-off that Manpreet was spotted in Gurusar village in Muktsar district and they rushed there to nab him. After detaining the man, they checked him thoroughly and it turned out that the man they detained was Beant Singh, the sarpanch of Gurusar village.

Anurag Thakur calls INDIA bloc arrogant

Union minister for information and broadcasting Anurag Thakur hit out at the Opposition INDIA bloc when he came to Hamirpur, his Lok Sabha constituency. He said the members of the bloc are "full of arrogance". Thakur was referring to the arrest of Punjab Congress MLA Sukhpal Singh Khaira. He said on the one hand, the alliance partners talked about unity, and on the other, they were trying to put each other down.
"The empty vessels have started to rattle," he said. Earlier, he had criticised the bloc, stating that Rahul Gandhi had tarnished India's image abroad and that leaders were defaming the Sanatan Dharma and Hindu religion.

Gaganyaan Mission: First unmanned flight vehicle abort test on October 25

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

ISRO is preparing for its first flight test vehicle abort mission likely to take place on October 25 as a run up to India's first manned space mission Gaganyaan, expected to be launched at the end of 2024 or early 2025. According to ISRO sources, the first development flight Test Vehicle (TV-D1) which is in the final stages of preparation, will be the first of four abort missions. It is meant to evaluate rescue procedures and ensure the safety of astronauts in case of possible emergencies during the main Gaganyaan mission that will carry three Indians into space to a 400-Km-altitude low earth orbit for three days.

"Preparations for the Flight Test Vehicle Abort Mission-1 (TV-D1), which demonstrates the performance of the Crew Escape System (CES), are underway," said the space agency on platform X on Saturday.

ISRO has developed TV-D1 which is a single-stage liquid rocket for the abort mission. "The payloads consist of the Crew Module (CM) and CES with their fast-acting solid motors, along with CM fairing (CMF) and Interface Adapters. The flight will simulate the abort condition during the ascent trajectory corresponding to a Mach number of 1.2 encountered in Gaganyaan," informed ISRO.

CES with CM will be separated from the Test Vehicle at an altitude of about 17 km. Simultaneously the abort sequence will be executed autonomously initiating the separation of CES and deployment of parachutes. "CM will be recovered after touchdown in the Bay of Bengal, using a dedicated vessel and diving team from the Navy," said ISRO. The landing will be about 10 km from Sriharikota coast.

The CM, where the astronauts will be contained in pressurised earth-like atmospheric conditions, will have an overall size and mass of actual Gaganyaan CM. The module will have all the systems for the deceleration and recovery.

Scientists said the Test Vehicle mission with CM is a significant milestone for the overall Gaganyaan programme "as a near-complete system is integrated for a flight test." The success of the first test flight will set the stage for the remaining tests and the unmanned full rehearsal missions before the main manned mission.

Army weighs honorary post for Mary Kom

MAYANK SINGH @New Delhi

THE Indian Army is contemplating inducting India's Olympian and former world champion boxer Mary Kom as an honorary officer in the Territorial Army (TA).

Sources said the proposal is currently in the deliberation stage. The TA has conferred honorary ranks upon eminent citizens from diverse fields. Currently, Kapil Dev, Mahendra Singh Dhoni and Abhinav Bindra hold the rank of honorary lieutenant colonel in TA. Sachin Tendulkar is the honorary group captain of the Indian Air Force (IAF). Politicians Anurag Thakur and Sachin Pilot are serving as honorary captain and lieutenant, respectively.

TA has 60 units and has inducted 14 women officers since 2019, a source said. The force is entering its 75th year of service this year.

'Many reforms — from ministry to last police station — being conceived'

NARENDRA SETHI @Dehradun

UNION home minister Amit Shah on Saturday justified the need to replace the IPC, CrPC and the Evidence Act saying any law becomes 'out of date' after 50 years.

"There has been no change in the IPC, CrPC or the Evidence Act since 1860. Any law becomes 'out of date' after 50 years. The scale of crime has changed, and so has the method of committing them but there has been no change in the method of dealing with them," Shah said.

Addressing a two-day 49th All India Police Science Congress held at Forest Research Institute in Dehradun, he said, "The importance of this conference increases even more as this conference is the first police science congress to be held in 'Amrit Kaal'.

He said numerous reforms right from the home ministry to the last police station have been conceived for "Amrit Kaal" and it is the time to implement them on the ground.

Elaborating on the reforms, Home Minister Shah said, "A lot of changes have been made in the Home Department of the Government of India. Now the time has come to implement these changes on the ground in the 'Azadi Ke Amrit Kaal' festival of Independence and give its good results to the country." The first condition of the parameters of development is that the law and order situation should be maintained, he added.

"In the last nine years, under the leadership of Prime Minister Narendra Modi, the government has been successful in improving law and order in three hotspots - Jammu and Kashmir, Left Wing Extremism region and North East", said the home minister. The All India Police Science Congress covers six subjects, including policing in the 5G era, narcotics, challenges of social media, community policing, internal security, coordination between police and the Central Armed Police Forces, Shah said.

New bills are the need of the hour: Shah

On August 11, Amit Shah introduced the Bharatiya Nyaya Sanhita (BNS) Bill, Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita (BNSS) Bill and Bharatiya Sakshya (BS) Bill, 2023 that will replace the IPC, 1860, CrPC, 1898, and the Indian Evidence Act, 1872. Addressing Parliament, he said the new bills are the need of the hour to keep up with contemporary times and ensure speedy justice.

BJP uses funds to corner caste-based votes in Guj

Amrut Kalash yatra begins in Kutch | EXPRESS

THE ruling BJP, which is opposed to caste-based politics and caste-based census, is using government funds to corner caste-based votes ahead of the Lok Sabha election in Gujarat.

According to a circular issued by the Panchayat Rural Housing and Rural Development department, which ordered the participation of specific communities such as 'Minorities,' Scheduled Castes (SC), Scheduled Tribes (ST), and The Other Backward Class (OBC) in the 'Amrut Kalash Mahotsav yatras,' the yatra will be taken out in the state by October 12. There was no mention of thr upper castes in the circular, indicating that the BJP is targeting specific populations with government funds ahead of the Lok Sabha elections.

The Panchayat Rural Housing and Rural Development department's circular dated October 5 enunciated the modalities for celebrating "Amrut Kalash Yatra," in which it has categorically instructed that members of the 'Minority community' must be persuaded to participate in the said yatra on October 12. Women will participate on October 6, Other Backward Class on October 7, Scheduled Caste on October 8, Youths on October 9, Scheduled Tribes on October 10, Farmers/cattle rarer across the state on October 11.

The government has referred to the activity as a national-building exercise and a component of the Azadi ka Amrut Mohatsav program. The village, taluka, and district panchayats are given a signed circular from the deputy secretary of the panchayat department, Narendra Vaghela. It contains comprehensive instructions on how the yatra is to be run and who must remain present during it.

The Circular stated, "Each and every home in the village and ward must be visited by the yatra, which must also gather a little amount of sand and rice in a Kalash. The finances available with the village, taluka, district panchayats, and municipalities are to be used to pay for these yatras. At every village and taluka level, 75 saplings are to be planted if they haven't already been there in the past."

"During every stage of the yatra, the Nodel officer, reporting Nodel officer, and event Nodel officer must all be appointed at each step. Mamlatdar, the taluka development officer, the village sarpanch, the local MLA, and the MP must all participate if the village has fewer than 2,500 residents.

In municipalities and municipal corporation regions, prant officers, deputy development officers, council members and other elected representatives, board and corporation's directors, MP, MLA, must participate if the population exceeds 2,500."

'Each ward to be visited'

The Panchayat Rural Housing and Rural Development department stated, "Each and every home in the village and ward must be visited by the yatra, which must also gather a little amount of sand and rice in a Kalash. The finances available with the village, taluka, district panchayats, and municipalities are to be used to pay for these yatras. At every village and taluka level, 75 saplings are to be planted if they weren't already.

Union minister locks horns with TMC, calls party allegation a 'blatant lie'

PRANAB MONDAL @Kolkata

THE row between the TMC and Union minister of state Sadhvi Niranjan Jyoti reached its peak after she flew to Kolkata, where CM's nephew Abhishek Banerjee is staging dharna in front of Raj Bhavan, on Saturday and refuted the allegation laid down by the Bengal's ruling party. The TMC accused her of not meeting Banerjee and the party delegation in Delhi and fleeing through the back-door of her office on October 4.

"TMC's allegation is baseless and not true. I gave them time to meet but they kept changing their conditions for the meeting. I waited but they did not meet me. They alleged I fled through the back-door of my office which is a blatant lie," said Jyoti in a press conference at the BJP's party office.

Banerjee led the protest in the national capital on October 2 and 3 to press for the Centre's release of funds due to Bengal under the heads of MGNREGA and Pradhan Mantri Awas Yojona (PMAY) and he alleged the protesters were dragged out of Jyoti's office where they were waiting to meet her.

Referring to the Union minister's Kolkata visit, the chief minister's nephew said, "We were thrown out of her office like dogs and cats on October 4. She ignored the rights of Bengal's poor people. Now she realises what she did. Our rightful demand has forced her to come to Kolkata."

Banerjee on Thursday had announced to continue the demonstration in front of Raj Bhavan till governor C.V. Ananda Bose meets a delegation of the Bengal's ruling party. He decided to continue the stir after finding that Bose left to visit flood-affected areas in north Bengal without meeting his delegation on Thursday.

Accusing the TMC-led government of misusing the Centre's fund, Jyoti said, "Malpractices were detected during the year 19920 and 2021 and we repeatedly asked the state government to take action against the persons responsible for it. But no action was taken against them. On October 4, I told the TMC leaders that meet me and sort out the issues and I will definitely release the funds. But they did not."

TMC charge

Referring to the Union minister's Kolkata visit, Abhishek Banerjee said that the party was thrown out of her office like dogs and cats on October 4. The TMC accused her of not meeting Banerjee in Delhi and fleeing from back-door of her office.

PM reviews status of sops announced on I-Day

Housing plan, solar power connections to households, Vishwakarma Yojana among schemes discussed at the meet

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @ New Delhi

PRIME Minister Narendra Modi on Saturday reviewed the work on a slew of announcements he made in his latest Red Fort speech while chairing a high-level meeting with officials of various departments.

Modi in his Independence Day speech reiterated his government's commitment to providing affordable credit for poor and marginalised sections for housing. He said as the poor always want to build their own houses, the government will assist them in getting relief in interest rates and loans from banks that will help them save a lot of money.

"At this meeting, the PM reviewed the progress on the housing scheme in detail with officials," said a source.

In his speech, he also assured the government will ensure beneficiaries get solar power.

"The solar power connections to households were also reviewed. The PM sought details on the progress of this scheme from officials and directed them to meet the deadline," the source added.

Vishwakarma Yojana, the ₹13,000 crore scheme for providing financial support to artisans and craftsmen announced by Modi on August 15 and launched on September 17 was also reviewed and officials were asked to take it on a priority basis. Sources said that more than two lakh applications under the Vishwakarma Yojna were received soon after it was launched.

Modi also reviewed the progress on the Lakhpati Didi scheme, which was also announced by him from the Red Fort. Citing data, Modi had said that over 10 crore women are associated in the country with Self Help Groups (SHG)s and claimed to make two crore "Lakhpati Didis" (women beneficiaries) by empowering them with essential skills that can pave the way for the setting up micro-enterprises. The scheme's main objective is to train two crore women.

Moreover, 15,000 rural women associated with the SHGs will be provided drones for training which can help them gain skills to use in agriculture and other fields and earn money. "During the meeting, the PM sought details on technology-driven works for training women on drone operating and emphasised teaching its use in agriculture that will give an immense boost to the rural economy," the source said.

Modi also sought the details of the implementation of every scheme he had announced and what is to be completed.

According to a source, Modi told the officials that schemes come under the top priority of the government and should be executed. The meeting comes amid the scheduled visits of the prime minister to poll-bound states—Rajasthan, Madhya Pradesh, Chhattisgarh, Telangana and Mizoram.

CENTRAL GOVT'S FLAGSHIP SCHEMES

Housing for poor: Government to assist in getting relief on interest rates and loans from banks for the construction of houses

Solar power: Solar power will be interconnected with the grid to take renewable energy across the country

Women empowerment: Over 2 crore women working with Self Help Groups(SHGs) will be provided training and skill development to start micro-enterprises

SATWIKSAIRAJ RANKIREDDY & CHIRAG SHETTY

SATWIK-CHIRAG GOLDEN BOYS WITH BIG HEARTS

SWAROOP SWAMINATHAN

SOURAV ROY

HOW do you celebrate when you go to a place nobody has been to before? If you are Satwiksairaj Rankireddy, you genuflect before P Gopichand and Mathias Boe, the two badminton coaches who were courtside when you win India's maiden badminton gold in the history of Asian Games. If you are Chirag Shetty, you throw your T-shirt into the crowd before hugging both the coaches.

In terms of surety of a medal, only Neeraj Chopra had ranked higher. But, at the end of a thrilling two-week joy ride for Indian sports, Rankireddy and Shetty have made sure they go home with two pieces of history against their names.

Last Sunday, they had won a silver as part of the team event, a first for the men in badminton. At the Binjiang Gymnasium on Saturday, they easily dispatched Solgyu Choi and Wonho Kim 21-18, 21-16 in one hour to become the first from India to taste gold in this sport in Asian Games. None of Gopichand, Saina Nehwal, PV Sindhu or Syed Modi had been able to break the duck. That in itself tells you what a monumental achievement this is. Those were the exact words used by Gopichand after the match, too. When the new BWF rankings drop next week, a further accolade awaits the two men who may well wish for 2023 to never end. World No 1.

NEWSMAKER

So, how did they do it? When they joined hands years ago, they already had a reputation for being an ultra-aggressive pair. Similar in style. While this gave some results, teams could play through them since they weren't an all-round duo. Once you've deciphered their weapons, elite teams knew how to get the job done. That's why they had come to be known as giant-killers. These days, they are the giants. The rise was not instant. It took years of devotion. They had to adapt with each other more than with the court.

They are now the apex predators in a highly-loaded field. It is also tempting to say the weight of this gold is heavier than most of the others that India have won, not just in China, but in the history of the Games. Gopichand put it in proper perspective. "If you look at the competition, countries like Malaysia, South Korea, Japan and Indonesia field two teams here," he said. "In all, there were nine nations that sent two teams whereas in the Olympics you have the top 13 nations and you may not have so many rounds of tough matches."

In other words, they have won an event that typically is tougher to win than the Olympics. It has taken years of hard work, small incremental improvements, a willingness to utterly trust the support staff (in this case Boe) and developing an all-court game where both players are comfortable attacking or defending, playing in the back court or near the net.

Developing that sort of game has been the secret behind the success they have had in 2023. In June 2023, they had won the Indonesia Open, a BWF Super 1000 event. It sort of signalled their entry into big-time badminton. After that win, Rankireddy had mentioned that he had become more of a professional in preparing for tournaments. The pair had eschewed sleeping late and having the odd sweet. Their dedication to the craft was going to be total. Last month, just before the Asian Games, they had reiterated that during a conversation. "I will probably play till 30-32," the 23-year-old Rankireddy, who's from Amalapuram, told this daily. "Will have all my life after that to party. So, why can't I sleep at 10 pm instead of 11? It is only helping me."

Shetty, 26, is more expressive while on court. While he likes his post-tournament-winning dance moves, the thing he loves most is just playing badminton. Give him a shuttle, a couple of racquets and he will become a kid in a candy store. "I feel whenever I am on court, I feel alive; the best version of myself is when I have a racquet in hand and playing," Shetty informed this daily last month. "If I don't have that passion, that's the last day I will play badminton. That is the most important thing, needing to have fun when you are on court and not think of it as a burden."

Rankireddy and Shetty are two very different individuals. The latter, from Mumbai, is city-born and bred, while Rankireddy is from a quaint town in Andhra Pradesh. The two could hardly be called similar in taste. Shetty used to crave for home during his early days in the academy while his partner loved spending time with his Telugu friends. Together, though, their chemistry has been off the charts. At Hangzhou, they cooked up the perfect storm.

Courts must be sensitive in cases involving women: SC

JAISON WILSON @ New Delhi

THE Supreme Court has said that courts are expected to deal with cases of cruelty against women in a more realistic manner and not allow the criminals to escape. The courts are expected to be sensitive in cases involving crimes against women, the apex court said.

A bench of justices J B Pardiwala and Prashant Kumar Mishra, while dismissing the appeals filed by a man and his mother against their conviction for cruel treatment of his wife, reduced the sentence of the victim's mother-in-law to the period already undergone.

"The role of courts in such circumstances assumes greater importance and it is expected that the courts would deal with such cases in a more realistic manner and not allow the criminals to escape on account of procedural technicalities, perfunctory investigation or insignificant lacunas in the evidence as otherwise the criminals would receive encouragement and the victims of crime would be totally discouraged by the crime going unpunished. The courts are expected to be sensitive in cases involving crime against women," the order stated.

The judgment came on appeals filed by the two convicts challenging a March 2014 order of the Uttarakhand High Court. The high court had upheld the order of a trial court, which had convicted the husband and mother-in-law of the deceased in the case lodged in 2007.

While the husband, Balvir Singh, was convicted for offences under Sections 302 (murder) and 498-A (subjecting a married woman to cruelty) of the Indian Penal Code, the mother-in-law of the deceased was held guilty of the offence under Section 498-A (husband or relative of husband of a woman subjecting her to cruelty) of the IPC.

The victim married Singh in December 1997. In June 2007, her father had filed an application in a magistrate court seeking a direction to the police to lodge an FIR in connection with the death of his daughter under suspicious circumstances in May 2007. Subsequently, the woman's husband and mother-in-law were arrested. During the trial, both said they were implicated in a false case.

In its verdict, the apex court noted that the cause of death was poisoning.

Plea on delay in clearing judges' appointments to be heard on Oct 9

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

A Supreme Court bench, comprising Justices Sanjay Kishan Kaul and Sudhanshu Dhulia, is scheduled to hear on Monday a plea that alleges delay by the Central government in clearing the names recommended by the collegiums for appointment and transfer of judges.

While hearing the matter on September 26, the top court had voiced dismay over the "delay" in the appointment of judges and asked Attorney General R Venkataramani to use his office to resolve the issue.

"There were 80 recommendations pending until last week when 10 names were cleared. Now, the figure is 70, of which 26 recommendations are of transfer of judges, seven are reiterations, nine are pending without being returned to the collegium and one case is of appointment of the Chief Justice to a sensitive high court," the bench had said.

All these recommendations are pending since November last year, the Supreme Court bench had said.

Proposal to amend law against misleading ads put on back burner

KAVITA BAJELI-DATT @ New Delhi

THE Union Health Ministry has kept in cold storage its proposal to amend the Drugs and Magic Remedies (Objectionable Advertisement) Act, 1954, which aimed to take stringent action against misleading advertisements, including of Ayush medicines, an RTI reply has revealed.

The ministry had proposed amendments to the Act, which prohibits the advertisement for remedies and treatments that allegedly possess magical qualities, on February 3, 2020. The Act applies to advertisements for drugs including Ayurvedic, Siddha, Homeopathy and Unani.

The proposed amendments also sought to widen the law's ambit by covering advertisements for 24 more diseases and disorders. These include ads for drugs to enhance sexual performance, improve skin fairness, increase height, and against premature ageing.

However, in reply to an RTI filed by Kerala-based ophthalmologist Dr KV Babu, who had asked about the status of the proposed amendments, the ministry said the query had been transferred to the Central Drugs Standard Control Organisation (CDSCO), India's regulatory body for cosmetics, pharmaceuticals and medical devices.

The CDSCO, in its October 4 reply, said it has no further info on the draft proposal, which was kept in the public domain for stakeholders' comment.

"In view of the concerns raised at several quarters on implementation and effectiveness of the Drugs and Magic Remedies (Objectionable Advertisement) Act, 1954, from time to time, Ministry of Health and Family Welfare, proposed to amend the ... Act to keep pace with changing time and technology. In this regard, a Draft Bill was published by the Ministry of Health and Family Welfare on February 3, 2020. CDSCO, as such, has no further information," the reply said.

"It is clear that the proposal has been kept in cold storage," Babu told this paper.

WHAT WAS PROPOSED

Drugs and Magic Remedies (Objectionable Advertisement) Act, 1954 prohibits misleading ads for remedies and treatments that possess 'magical qualities'

Union Ministry of Health had on February 3, 2020, proposed amendments to the Act

- The amendments sought to widen the Act's ambit to include ads for treatment of 24 more diseases and disorders
- These include ads for drugs to enhance sexual performance, improve skin fairness, increase height, and against premature ageing

Post-Covid, respiratory ailments rampant in kids

KAVITA BAJELI-DATT @ New Delhi

ONE in three Indian parents have said that their children have fallen sick with flu or respiratory ailments four or more times in the last year, a trend which started after the Covid-19 pandemic, says a latest study.

The survey by community social media platform LocalCircles, which studied 31,000 parents across 317 districts, said that the reason for children falling ill repeatedly could be attributed to several types of influenza sweeping the country, affecting people, especially school-going children.

The study points out that though children fall sick a couple of times during the year due to changes in weather each year, the frequency of these illnesses appears to be rising since early 2022, after the third wave of Covid.

According to it, 30 per cent of parents indicated that their children were unwell with cold, cough or fever 4-6 times in the last 12 months, while 3 per cent said 7-12 times, and 38 per cent added it to be 2-3 times.

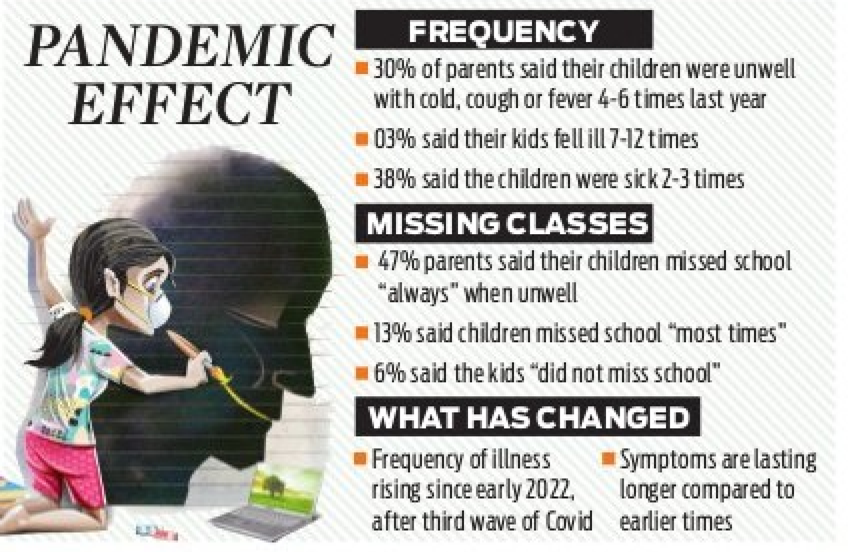
The fallout of children falling ill more frequently post-Covid was that they had to miss school more often. The survey found that 47 per cent of parents said their children missed school always when unwell; 13 per cent stated the children missed school most times when ill. Only 6 per cent said their children "did not miss school despite being unwell." One of the main concerns of the parents was the "reduced immunity" of their school-going children.

Agreeing with the survey findings, Dr Vivin Abraham, consultant paediatrician and intensivist at Lisie Hospital, Cochin, said there is a definite hike in flu cases in people, especially among children, post-Covid. "It is rampant. We are getting reports of sudden spikes in flu cases among children from all over the country. Children are falling ill more often now," he told this paper.

He said symptoms in children are lasting longer as compared to earlier times. "Earlier, we would give antibiotics for five or ten days. Now, we are giving it for a longer duration because the infection rate is higher. The children are now transmitting the infection to their parents and others. Also, more children are testing positive for influenza," he added.

According to Dr Rajeev Jayadevan, co-chairman of the National Indian Medical Association Covid Task Force, the rise in infection among children is also because they have started going to school last year after a prolonged period of isolation.

"During lockdown, their infection rate was less due to lack of exposure. When they start going to real classrooms instead of online learning, they get exposed to more infectious agents," Jayadevan said.



PANDEMIC EFFECT

FREQUENCY

- 30% of parents said their children were unwell with cold, cough or fever 4-6 times last year
- 03% said their kids fell ill 7-12 times
- 38% said the children were sick 2-3 times

MISSING CLASSES

- 47% parents said their children missed school "always" when unwell
- 13% said children missed school "most times"
- 6% said the kids "did not miss school"

WHAT HAS CHANGED

- Frequency of illness rising since early 2022, after third wave of Covid
- Symptoms are lasting longer compared to earlier times

Railways considers one-time option for women loco pilots to switch jobs

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @ New Delhi

THE Indian Railways is contemplating providing a one-time option to women drivers and track maintainers to change their job category as per their choices.

According to official data, the railways has a strength of 1,350 women as loco pilots and assistant loco pilots among a total of 65,000 loco pilots.

A senior railway official said on Saturday that most women loco pilots and women track maintainers seek to change their job category due to unsafe working challenges.

Sources said the railways is finding out how many applications are pending for years in the job change category.

On October 4, the railway moved ahead with the move following a request from the National Federation of Indian Railwaymen to give women track maintainers and running staff a one-time option to change their job category. "The matter is under examination and zonal railways are requested to provide the number of female track maintainers and ALPs...and the number of requests pending as of date from female track maintainers or female running staff for change of their assigned categories," said the Ministry of Railway.

However, many women employees have said the railways should provide more facilities to women on such jobs instead of offering a one-time option for job change to them.

Two 6.3 magnitude quakes kill dozens in west Afghanistan

HERAT

TWO 6.3 magnitude earthquakes killed dozens of people in western Afghanistan on Saturday, the country's national disaster authority said.

The United Nations gave a preliminary figure of 320 dead, but later said the figure was still being verified. Local authorities gave an estimate of 100 people killed and 500 injured. "So far, more than 1,000 injured women, children, and old citizens have been included in our records, and about 120 people have lost their lives," Herat province disaster management head Mosa Ashari said.

Mohammad Abdullah Jan said four villages in the Zenda Jan district in Herat bore the brunt of the quakes and aftershocks. Dozens of houses have been damaged.

The United States Geological Survey (USGS) reported the 6.3 magnitude tremblors. It said the epicentre was 40 kilometres northwest of Herat city. There was an aftershock with a 5.5 magnitude. A map on the USGS website indicates seven earthquakes in the area.

Crowds of residents fled buildings in the city at around 11.00 am (0630 GMT) as the quakes began, lasting just under three hours.

The World Health Organisation in Afghanistan said it dispatched 12 ambulance cars to Zenda Jan to evacuate casualties to hospitals. "As deaths & casualties from the earthquake continue to be reported, teams are in hospitals assisting treatment of wounded & assessing additional needs," the UN agency said on X.

Telephone connections went down in Herat, making it hard to get details from affected areas. Videos on social media showed hundreds of people in the streets outside their homes and offices in Herat city.

Hundreds of fatalities were possible, as per a USGS preliminary report. "Significant casualties are likely and the disaster is potentially widespread. Past events with this alert level have required a regional or national level response," it said. The USGS had earlier reported the first quake's magnitude as 6.2. It had a shallow depth of just 14 km, it said. Agencies

AUGUST 2005: Israeli forces unilaterally withdraw from Gaza 38 years after capturing it from Egypt in the Middle East war

JANUARY 25, 2006: The Islamist group Hamas wins a majority of seats in a Palestinian legislative election. Israel and the US cut off aid to Palestinians as Hamas refuses to recognise Israel

JUNE 25, 2006: Hamas militants capture Israeli army conscript Gilad Shalit from Gaza, prompting Israeli air strikes

DECEMBER 27, 2008: Israel launches a campaign of air strikes against militants in Gaza, dubbed Operation Cast Lead, to stop Palestinian rocket fire into Israel. By the time of ceasefire, 1,400 Palestinians and 13 Israelis have been killed

JULY-AUGUST 2014: On July 8, 2014, Israel launches Operation Protective Edge, with the goal of stopping Palestinian rocket fire. The 7-week conflict kills 2,251 Palestinians & 74 Israelis

MARCH 2018: Palestinian protests begin at Gaza's border with Israel. More than 170 Palestinians are reported killed, which prompt fighting between Hamas & Israeli forces

MAY 2021: Israel responds to a barrage of Hamas rocket fire with an 11-day campaign of air and artillery strikes that kill at least 248 people in Gaza

JANUARY 2023: Islamic Jihad in Gaza fires two rockets towards Israel after Israeli troops raid a refugee camp and kill seven Palestinian gunmen as well as two civilians

MAY 2023: Five days of fighting between Israel and Gaza's other militant group, Islamic Jihad, leave 33 dead in Gaza and two in Israel

OCTOBER 7, 2023: Hamas launches the biggest attack on Israel in years from the Gaza Strip, with a surprise assault combining gunmen crossing the border with a heavy barrage of rockets

World in shock after surprise attack on Israel

While nations like the US and France have condemned the strikes, Iranian lawmakers chanted 'Down with Israel'

PARIS

COUNTRIES around the world have condemned a wave of Palestinian attacks on Israel by land, sea and air that have left several dead and hundreds wounded on Saturday.

French President Emmanuel Macron on Saturday said he strongly condemns the terrorist attacks that are currently striking Israel. "I express my full solidarity with the victims, their families and their loved ones," he said.

The US condemned the attack by "Hamas terrorists" against Israel. "The United States unequivocally condemns the unprovoked attacks by Hamas terrorists against Israeli civilians," a White House statement said. US President Joe Biden on Saturday warned "against any other party hostile to Israel seeking advantage in this situation."

A senior adviser to Iran's supreme leader Ayatollah Ali Khamenei expressed support for the attack, calling it a proud operation. "We support this operation," Yahya Rahim Safavi said, quoted by ISNA. At a parliament session on Saturday, Iranian lawmakers chanted "Down with Israel," and "Welcome Palestine."

Saudi Arabia's foreign ministry said, "The Kingdom calls for an immediate halt to the escalation between the two sides, and protection of civilians."

The UN's human rights chief Volker Turk said, "I call for an immediate stop to the violence, and appeal to all sides…to de-escalate to avoid bloodshed."

EU chief Ursula von der Leyen unequivocally condemned the attack carried out by Hamas terrorists against Israel. "It is terrorism in its most despicable form. Israel has the right to defend itself against such attacks," she said.

Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelenskyy, said Israel had an "indisputable" right to defend itself. "Terror is always a crime, not just against one country or specific victims, but against humanity as a whole," he said.

Russia's foreign ministry called for an immediate ceasefire. "We call on the Palestinian and Israeli sides to immediately cease fire…show the necessary restraint…," ministry spokeswoman Maria Zakharova said.

Germany "firmly condemns the terrorist attacks from Gaza against Israel," Foreign Minister Annalena Baerbock said. Israel "has our full solidarity" and "the right, guaranteed by international law, to defend itself against terrorism," Baerbock said on social media.

Turkish President Recep Tayyip Erdogan urged Israel and Palestinians to avoid escalation. "We invite all parties to act reasonably and to stay away from impulsive steps that raise tensions," he said. AFP

Eviction of Afghans is violation of rights, UN warns Pakistan

ISLAMABAD

FORCIBLY deporting Afghans from Pakistan could lead to severe human rights violations—including the separation of families and deportation of minors, the United Nations warned on Saturday. Pakistan recently announced a crackdown on migrants living in the country illegally, including 1.7 million Afghans, telling them to return to their home countries by October 31 to avoid mass arrest and expulsion.

The UN agencies said Afghanistan is going through a severe humanitarian crisis, particularly for women and girls. "Such plans would have serious implications for all who have been forced to leave the country and may face serious protection risks upon return," it said, referring to Pakistan's crackdown.

They acknowledged Pakistan's "sovereign prerogative" over domestic policies and said they are ready to help register and manage Afghan nationals, including those who may be in need of international protection.

The International Organization for Migration and the UN refugee agency called on countries to "suspend forcible returns of Afghan nationals and ensure any possible returns to the country take place in a safe, dignified and voluntary manner." Landlords and real estate owners in the Pakistani capital, Islamabad, have received notices telling them to evict "illegal Afghans" and their families by the end of the month or face action.

The charge d'affaires at the Afghan Embassy in Islamabad expressed concern about the "increased pressure and hasty expulsion" of Afghan migrants. As per an embassy statement, Sardar Ahmad Shakeeb met the UN refugee agency's new Pakistan representative, Philippa Candler, and asked her to urgently address the situation. He said there were numerous reports of Afghans with valid documents being detained, humiliated, harassed and mistreated before their release. Although Pakistani police have routinely arrested and deported Afghans who have entered the country without valid documents in recent years, this is the first time the government has announced plans for such a major crackdown. AP

Suella's uncle cautions her over immigration rhetoric

LONDON

A Delhi-based Catholic priest uncle of UK Home Secretary Suella Braverman has cautioned his niece about some of her language around immigration and urged her not to forget that she herself is a child of migrants. According to a report in The Times on Saturday, Father Ayres Fernandes said that he sees the need to clamp down on illegal immigration. However, the director of a retreat centre in Okhla said there was a need for more compassion towards refugees and asylum seekers. "I only pray that she remembers that she herself was born to migrant parents, and therefore, she needs to be a little cautious when making such comments," said Fernandes.

The 73-year-old told the British newspaper that he and another family member had discussed Braverman's political posturing with a relative and speculated her hardline approach may be due to being backed by Conservative Party right-wingers. "She's quite strong by herself... she has her own thinking. But I believe that there is somebody backing her up to make such comments. But being a minister, holding such a position, she should be a little cautious," he said. PTI

AIR QUALITY UNHEALTHY AFTER HAZE

Air quality in parts of Singapore hit unhealthy levels on Saturday as winds brought haze from Indonesian forest fires to the city-state, its environment agency said on Saturday. Singapore's National Environment Agency said the pollutant standards index (PSI) breached the unhealthy level of 100 on Saturday, hitting 111 in an eastern suburb and 102 in the island's centre before midday. At PSI levels between 100 and 200, residents are advised to "reduce prolonged strenuous outdoor physical exertion," according to the NEA guidelines

IT Q2 RESULTS PREVIEW

- Morgan Stanley research report says margins have more tailwinds in FY25e (falling attrition rates, sub-optimal utilisation rates, room to improve employee pyramid and operating leverage)
- Top-5 IT companies have barely hired in the past 12 months
- Deal bookings in the IT sector have been robust, as many firms announced mega deals in Q2
- Deals centred around cost optimisation and consolidation
- Kotak Institutional Equities expects a 0.5-0.8% c/c growth rate sequentially for Infosys, HCLTech and TCS
- It expects a decline of 0.6% for Wipro and flat revenues at Tech Mahindra

UMA KANNAN @ Bengaluru

IT services companies started the year with many challenges including macroeconomic headwinds, recession fears and a fall in spending by clients, and all these are expected to continue in coming quarters. Analysts expect growth in the industry for September quarter to remain weak and they may report muted growth.

Tata Consultancy Services (TCS) will be the first company to report its Q2FY24 earnings on October 11, followed by HCLTech and Infosys on October 12. Wipro and LTIMindtree will announce their results on October 18. Kotak Institutional Equities in its IT Services: 2QFY24E preview forecasts muted revenue growth for tier-1 IT firms in a seasonally strong quarter. "EBIT margin will fall marginally year-on-year (YoY), with the quarterly movement influenced by the wage revision cycle. We expect muted revenue growth for mid-tier," it said.

In some cases, it expects record deals that will set the platform for FY2025. In the second quarter, TCS, Infosys and HCLTech have won large deals. Analysts forecast $5.5-6 billion TCV (Total Contract Value) from Infosys and $12 billion for TCS, up 48% YoY.

"We believe deal flow has steadied after the transition from discretionary spending-powered short-tenured programs to larger programs fueled by cost take-outs, which have longer sales cycles. We expect the continuation of cost take-out deals in CY2024 along with an improvement in discretionary spending," Kotak Institutional Equities said. JM Financials too expects large-cap IT services players to report a modest (1%) to + 1% CC quarter-on-quarter (QoQ) growth in Q2. It expects Infosys and TCS to be at the upper end while Tech Mahindra, still impacted by project ramp-downs towards 1Q-end, to be at the bottom end of the band. "Mid-caps under coverage will fare better. Large deal wins, though positive, is unlikely to contribute meaningfully to FY24 revenues," it said.

As per HDFC Securities, IT sector is expected to deliver a soft quarter, though Q2 has historically been a seasonally strong quarter. "Growth divergence is expected between companies, with tier-1 IT sequential growth ranging from -1.4% to +2.2% and mid-tier IT sequential growth ranging from +0.9% to 3.8%," it said.

Recently, Accenture reported a soft quarter in its managed services deal bookings, indicative of extended weakness, booking velocity has been stronger in Indian IT. Brokerages expect AI spending and adoption to accelerate and supplement growth, even as cloud migration and application modernisation will be large medium-term spend imperatives.

"We see greater competition in deals (sub-par margins in mega deals), following several senior-level leadership changes in the sector," said HDFC Securities

Senior-level exits at Wipro

One of the major exits that happened in the industry is that of Wipro. Last month, Wipro announced it is appointing Aparna C Iyer as chief financial officer. Aparna succeeds Jatin Dalal, who resigned from Wipro, and joined as CFO at Cognizant. Wipro has been witnessing many senior level exits this year including operations head Sanjeev Singh, India business head Satya Easwaran, Americas Two CFO Nithin V Jaganmohan, iDEAS business head Rajan Kohli, and Americas One CFO Kamini Shah. Senior VPs Mohd Haque and Ashish Saxena also exited the firm recently. "Leadership exits are not a new phenomenon across businesses and sectors. This does put an organisation under pressure to find new candidates who can fill the shoes of the veterans. This could be an opportunity for an organisation to gain new perspectives to review and restructure wherever necessary," said Sachin Alug, CEO, NLB Services.

A serial entrepreneur and investor, Somdutta Singh, said, "Executive departures can be a signal of organisational changes, shifts in strategic direction, or simply the natural progression of leadership. It's crucial to dig deeper into the reasons behind these exits and assess whether they indicate potential challenges or opportunities for the company," he said.

As per him, it is an opportunity for the company to refresh its leadership and strategy if managed effectively.

IT hiring to drop

In the past one year, top IT companies have barely hired, and analysts expect a continuation of the trend in the current quarter. In the June quarter, Infosys headcount fell by 6,940 employees as against Q4. IT companies Wipro and HCLTech also saw a decline in headcounts. TCS added only 523 employees in the June quarter, which is a 96% drop as compared to 14,136 employees it added in the year-ago period. Wipro's employee count fell by 8,812 in Q1. HCLTech net headcount reduced by 2,506 during the June quarter. However, Alug said IT companies have exhibited a high hiring outlook of nearly 50% in Q3. "With opportunities emerging in the spheres of green technology, electric vehicles, and heightened focus on AI and cybersecurity, IT firms are looking to lap them up through qualified professionals," he added.

If the macroeconomic environment stabilises and client spending picks up, IT companies may become more optimistic about expanding their teams. Additionally, many companies have been accelerating their digital transformation efforts, which could lead to increased demand for skilled IT professionals, said Somdutta Singh, Founder and CEO, Assiduus Global Inc.

DESPITE HIGH PREMIUMS, INSURERS DODGE CLAIMS

GURBIR SINGH

AS illness and epidemics strike, and consumers increasingly face high costs of hospitalization and medical treatment, health insurance companies are increasingly dodging insurers' claims. For the old and retired clinging to their health insurance covers, a rejection of a medical claim is often a death blow.

The situation is so bad that that Third Party Administrators (TPAs) – the outfits that vet and sanction claims for the insurances companies – are under instructions to hunt for technical and other reasons to reject as many claims as they can.

Sample these recent cases. B S Jaisimha filed a case in December 2021 before a Bengaluru consumer court alleging his claim for ₹2.56 lakh in hospitalisation charges had been rejected unfairly by the Reliance General Insurance Company. Jaisimha was hospitalised after suffering several episodes of hematemesis (vomiting blood), but the company denied his claim as Jaisimha had a long history of alcoholism.

The court however ruled that alcohol consumption is a common lifestyle choice and does not automatically render people ineligible for health insurance.It went on to order a refund of the ₹2.56 lakh hospital costs with 8% interest, along with penalties for deficient service.

More recently, as Kolkata battles with an epidemic of dengue, medical insurance claims of many patients have been rejected because the insurance companies opined they did not require hospital admission. This is despite several court rulings that the decision whether hospitalisation is required rests solely with the treating doctor and not with the insurance company.

Countering the trend of insurers stepping into the shoes of the doctor, a recent decision by the Surat District Consumer Court rapped Star Health & Allied Insurance for rejecting Covid patient Amitkumar Goyal's hospitalisation claim of ₹86,250 with a one-liner 'admission not required'. The insurance company was then ordered to pay the claim with 9% interest.

Serial offenders

Data emanating from the Insurance Regulatory & Development Authority (IRDAI) shows the rejection of claims by medical insurers is quite high, and hovers around 10%. However, the two companies that seem to have the worst track record – Care Health Insurance and Star Health – are under fire for a rejection rate of 13% and 17.2%, respectively for FY2022.

In terms of numbers, for FY2022, Star Health rejected as many as 3.12 lakh of the total 17.99 lakh claims by consumers; while Care Health rejected 72,903 of the 5.92 lakh claims. In addition, both companies had more than one lakh claims pending at the end of the period.

SOURAV ROY

It is not that we don't have a consumer redressal mechanism. The Insurance Regulatory and Development Authority (IRDA) Act, 1999, has set up an autonomous body to protect the interests of policyholders and to regulate and ensure the orderly growth of the insurance industry. The regulation process has a sophisticated fast-track redressal process where state-wise Ombudsmen receive and settle disputes in a time-bound manner.

At a broader level, there is also the Consumer Protection Act, 2019 – an upgraded version of the 1986 act. Any 'consumer' of a goods or service who has issues in respect of quality, pricing and standards can seek compensation and penalties through the Consumer Redressal Commissions at the district or state level.

Casual rejections

That said, insurance companies take a calculated risk when they reject smaller claims. Thousands of claims of under ₹50,000 do not go to the next stage of 'Ombudsman' or the consumer courts purely because of the hassle and costs involved. Hidden 'exclusions' in the policy terms or failure to disclose health conditions at the time of buying a policy are used to reject claims.

For instance, Care Health rejected a claim of ₹45,000 of a patient for an 'intra-vitreal injection procedure' at the Reliance HN Hospital, Mumbai for 'age-related' macular degeneration of the eyes. The grounds: eye degeneration is usually caused by diabetes which was an 'excluded' item in the policy. This is despite a hospital diagnosis that the patient's condition had nothing to do with diabetes.

Forbes Advisor says there were 513 million Indians with a health or life insurance cover in 2021 or 37% of the population. With the introduction of government insurance schemes, this has lifted to about 70%, but 400 million today still have no access to health insurance. IRDAI data meanwhile shows it is a booming industry with the gross premium on health insurance collections more than doubling from ₹20,096 crore in FY2015 to ₹58,237 crore in FY2021.

At the same time, the biggest deterrent to universal insurance was the high premiums that continue to climb even as services are poor. A recent study by policybazaar.com showed 43% of respondents who hadn't purchased a health policy was because of the 'high premium', while 32% said they didn't have sufficient funds. Despite all the recent talk by the government of making health insurance a universal cover, it still remains a distant dream.

18% GST on corporate guarantee by parent co to subsidiary

MONIKA YADAV @ New Delhi

THE Goods and Services Tax (GST) Council, Chaired by Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman, on Saturday, recommended that the parent company's corporate guarantee to its subsidiary for a bank loan will attract 18% GST.

However, if a director provides a personal guarantee for a loan from a bank or any financial institution to their own company, no GST will be applicable.

This newspaper was the first to report that the Council will come up with the clarification on this issue.

Revenue Secretary Sanjay Malhotra clarified during a press conference that when a corporate guarantee is given by a director to their company, the value of the service will be deemed as zero, hence no tax will be levied. This exemption is applicable when no consideration is paid by the company to the director directly or indirectly for providing the personal guarantee to the bank or financial institution. In such cases, the open market value of the transaction or supply will be treated as zero, resulting in no tax liability.

However, the taxable value of the supply of a corporate guarantee provided between related parties, such as a parent company and its subsidiary, will be calculated as 1% of the amount of the guarantee offered or the actual consideration, whichever is higher.

On this, Abhishek A Rastogi, founder of Rastogi Chambers, feels that there could be tax cascading in certain cases and the provisions may be challenged in courts.

"It may lead to absurdity in cases wherein the actual consideration charged is much less than 1% of the guarantee amount. The basic structural framework of GST for valuation of services gets defeated when the services are valued at predetermined percentages, and not on the actual amount of consideration," said Rastogi. The Council also recommended an extension of upper age of the President of the GST Appellate Tribunal (GSTAT) to 70 years from 67 years.

AP archer enjoying purple patch after misses in the past, claims third gold medal in Hangzhou

Positive outlook behind Jyothi's memorable show

SWAROOP SWAMINATHAN
EXPRESS @ THE GAMES
HANGZHOU

THE rolling Fushu mountain ranges offer a cinematic backdrop to the archery ranges in Hangzhou. The theatricality was further enhanced on Saturday as low-lying clouds acted as a white blanket, covering some of the mountains. While winter is yet to begin in this part of China, it was yet another cold and overcast start. The weather itself was more Manchester summer than mid-autumn Hangzhou — a perma soft drizzle. The rain, though, didn't spoil Jyothi Surekha Vennam's parade. It had merely come for the final coronation, a last act in a grand three-part series that will live long in the memory.

It began last Sunday when she finished with 704 out of a possible 720 to win the qualification rounds in the individual compound event. After taking down South Korea to win mixed gold in the company of Ojas Deotale, in the company of Aditi Swami, she beat Chinese Taipei in the women's team event. For the final act, she beat South Korea's Chaewon So 149-145 on Saturday morning for her third gold of the Games.

For an athlete who has been thereabouts without winning the major medals, the last week has been a culmination of winning everything everywhere at the same time. Antalya (gold; World Cup 1), Berlin (bronze; Worlds) and Paris (bronze; World Cup 4) offered a sneak peek into the kind of form she was carrying into China for these Games. But it hasn't been easy being Jyothi. She has had to wait a long time to enter the winner's circle. "The waiting period is always for everyone and it was the same for me," she said after picking up the third gold. "Now that the good time has come, I just want to live in this moment. You always think about those moments (the waiting period) because we should not forget the past. We have to remember everything so that we achieve more heights."

Italy's Sergio Pagni, who has been working on and off with India's compound archers, said this was a very cathartic moment for the Andhra Pradesh girl. "For Jyothi, this is a very cathartic moment because she has lost so many gold medals in the final during her career," he explained. "Finally winning a gold she has deserved so much."

Even if she was precocious as a child — she entered the Limca Book of records for a swimming achievement when she was four — success wasn't her friend for a long time. She featured in her first World Cup in 2011 but it wasn't until 2018 when she had a medal around her neck. When you wait that long, it's natural to wonder.

So, what's changed between the Jyothi of a few years ago and now. As cliche as the answer might sound, she says 'it's the power of being more positive'. Like in other precision sports, if you allow yourself to dwell on the past, it's possible you lose sight of the present and the future. "I started to think more positively," Jyothi, a deputy collector with the government of Andhra Pradesh, explained. "Focus more on the positive side and not on the negative side. If you think about negatives, it may begin to affect your performance and mental health. It's not that I used to think negatively before, but sometimes it's not in your hands that the thoughts come in. I learned to just let go."

In 2023, she has approached every tournament thinking she's going to win it. "In every tournament this year, I have gone in thinking this is going to be my year. You have got to stay positive, so that you can deliver your best. I have been thinking like that for every tournament this year (laughs)."

Pagni's role in shaping Jyothi has also been immense. For example, Jyothi has had some problems in the past when facing the likes of Ella Gibson and Sara Lopes (two of the world's best women's compound archers by rankings). At Antalya, she beat Gibson in the semis before besting Lopes in the final.

"A lot of athletes know that they can shoot a 10, it's easy," Pagni said. "But I try to move that thought process of it being easy to shoot a 10 to 'I know for sure I can shoot a 10'. That is not easy.

"I do not need to convince (Jyothi) that Sara Lopes can be beaten. You have to convince the athlete that there is no opponent in front of you. Just you and your target. It is impossible to manage your level to that of another athlete. What is possible is to manage your own level. You can manage yourself, not another athlete.

"Jyothi focussed a lot on herself, she was very good about it. Another moment of catharsis was the first World Cup stage. We know we had to break this wall (Sara Lopes). Then, we arrived in Antalya. She beat Ella Gibson in the semis and beat Sara in the final. Two people against whom she had lost matches in the past."

These days, she is the one doing the winning. A lot of winning.

Flu nearly derailed Sat-Chi's golden run

SWAROOP SWAMINATHAN
@ Hangzhou

IN the end, a flu almost derailed Indian badminton's best laid plans of tasting gold for the first time ever. A few days ago, Chirag Shetty had complained of fever. That night, it worsened. It got so bad that Satwiksairaj Rankireddy had mentally prepared himself for a walkover before one of the earlier doubles rounds.

There was some illness going around in the badminton camp and Shetty was feeling the after-effects of it on Saturday as well. For the entirety of the final against South Korea, Mathias Boe was in constant communication with the 26-year-old. When asked what it was, the Mumbaikar said: "Basically he was telling me to keep moving and not stay still (because I still am not physically a 100%). He was constantly asking me to keep moving. I was on a dosage till a few days ago but not on any tablets now. Even today, whenever the rallies got longer, I felt a bit breathless." Other members of the badminton contingent too felt the flu.

"There is a lot of behind the scenes you don't know," Rankireddy said. "He got a flu on the first day, he was sick. I thought the next day we are playing against the Indonesians, it will be walkover or concede because he didn't sleep that night. He is not at all fit. I could sense that on court, but he didn't show that to me. He always pushed himself, was not well, was suffering with flu after the team event. Really kudos to him the fight he had. I always tell him he is Rafael Nadal, he never gives up."

The most pleasing aspect about their week would have been the domination even if they were less than 100%. They lost only one game all week and that was to the Indonesian pair in the second round. What makes them so hard to play against is their understanding of the court, the way they troubleshoot on the go and how they are able to play both roles (attacking as well as defending). On Saturday, they showed how ever-evolving their game is.

To counter the slow nature of the court and the trueness of the shuttle (the ones that were used are more durable), they opted for a side-to-side formation rather than the more traditional front and back (the Koreans were playing front and back). If they had opted for a more front-and-back formation, they could have been exposed to gaps on the backcourt.

India's medals on Saturday

GOLD

Kabaddi: Men's and women's teams; Badminton: Men's doubles: Satwik-Sairaj Rankireddy, Chirag Shetty; Cricket: Men's team; Archery: Compound individual: Men's: Ojas Deotale; Women's: Jyothi Surekha Vennam

SILVER

Chess: Men's and women's teams; Archery: Men's compound individual: Abhishek Verma ;

Wrestling: Deepak Punia

BRONZE

Hockey: Women's team

Archery: Women's Compound individual: Aditi Swami

SHORT TAKES

Chess teams clinch silver medals

The Indian men's and women's chess teams won silver medals. GM Harika Dronavalli, IM Vaishali Rameshbabu, IM Vantika Agrawal, and WGM Savitha Shri Baskar all won their games to beat South Korea 4-0 in the final round to finish with 15 match points. The Indian men finished their campaign with a 3.5-0.5 win against Philippines.

Silver medal for wrestler Deepak

Two-time Olympic medallist Hasan Yazdani proved too good for Deepak Punia, who settled for a silver after losing by technical superiority to the Iranian legend in the men's 86kg category as India's wrestling campaign ended with six medals but without gold. Overall, India won six medals. Bajrang Punia had missed out on a medal on Saturday.

Kabaddi tie marred by controversy

Controversy struck the Asian Games men's kabaddi summit clash between India and Iran on Saturday with players sitting on the mat in protest against the referee's decision, leading to heated arguments between the rival sides. In scenes rarely seen on a kabaddi mat, play was held up for nearly one hour in the final. India won the contest 33-29.

Results: Burnley 1-4 Chelsea; Everton 3-0 Bournemouth; Fulham 3-1 Sheffield; Luton 0-1 Spurs; Man United 2-1 Brentford.

Sharma & Co set for Australian challenge on familiar turf

ASHOK VENUGOPAL @Chennai

THE last time India played a home ICC Men's ODI World Cup game, it was on the epic night in Mumbai where the then skipper MS Dhoni launched Nuwan Kulasekara into the stands of Wankhede to end the 28-year trophy drought as India lifted the World Cup. 12 years on, India will begin their quest to bring back the trophy home in Chennai as they take on Australia at the MA Chidambaram stadium here on Sunday.

A capacity crowd will be eagerly looking forward to Rohit Sharma and Co to open their campaign on a winning note. Both teams have injury and health concerns and one would get to know about the final XI just before the toss. Opening batter Shubman Gill's availability continues to be in doubt as he has still not recovered from his illness. "Everybody is fit, but Gill is not a hundred percent. He's sick, but there is no injury concern. He's not feeling well, we are monitoring him on a daily basis. We are going to give him every chance to recover and see how he feels as he's not ruled out," said Sharma. "I feel for him, and in terms of being a human first, I want him to get well. Not thinking as the captain that I want Gill to play; I want him to get well as no one likes being sick. He's a young guy, has a fit body and he will recover quickly," added Rohit. In the event of Gill's unavailability, India will opt for Ishan Kishan to open with Rohit.

On the other hand, Australian captain Pat Cummins said his team management is keeping a close watch on the fitness of all-rounder Marcus Stoinis who has picked up a hamstring injury ahead of their World Cup match against India. Cummins said Stoinis would be put through his paces in the next few hours before taking a final call. "We'll announce the team on Sunday at the toss. Stoinis, yeah, still touch and go. He's going to have a run out soon, but probably up against it. He's got to jump through a few hoops. Yeah, we'll see," said Cummins on Saturday.

However, Cummins was not really worried as Australia have quality all-rounders in their ranks who could step in for Stoinis. "I think in one-day cricket more than any other formats you need all-rounders -- you've got to try and find 50 overs. So, we feel really blessed to have people like Cam (Cameron) Green, Mitch Marsh, Glenn Maxwell in the side. They're like gold. It means you can bat deeper so we feel in a really good place," added Cummins.

Sharma, too, is aware of Australia's enviable record in the ICC championships. "What we have done in the past I don't think too much and we are going to play good cricket on the given day. Literally, we know how Australia play in ICC tournaments, there is a reason for they have so many championships," said Rohit. "For us, it will be very important that we stick to what we want to do as a team, focus on our strengths, and assess the conditions here," added the Mumbaikar, insisting that the Chennai pitch can be quite tricky. "We played against Australia at this very same venue in March and we were slightly behind in that game. But we knew exactly what went wrong for us. So hopefully we shouldn't repeat that mistake that we made in that game in March. But again, like I said, it's a fresh day, fresh game for both teams."

India will most likely play three spinners in Ravindra Jadeja, R Ashwin and Kuldeep Yadav. And naturally Cummins is wary of the Indian spin attack. "They're a good bowling line-up, especially in home conditions. So, they're going to be challenging. The good thing is that we've played them a lot. So, our batters will have their own plans. We've had success against them a few times. They've bowled well against us a few times as well," said Cummins.

Barring the possibility of rain, Sunday promises to be a cracking contest. For both India and Australia would want to kick off their respective campaigns with a victory.

HOSTS SEEK HAPPY START

Rohit & Co face Australia in their opening game on Sunday in Chennai. A look...

ASHWIN'S HOMECOMING

12 years after making his World Cup debut at his home ground, R Ashwin will play another game in front of the local crowd should he make the playing XI. Going by the conditions, it would be a surprise if he doesn't.

GILL STILL SICK

Shubman Gill is "sick" is what the captain said on Saturday. While wishing him to get better, Sharma did not rule out the opener. However, it will is very unlikely that Gill will take the field on Sunday.

MARCUS OR GREEN

Australia captain Pat Cummins said that Marcus Stoinis is recovering well, but it will be interesting to see if they prefer the former or young all-rounder Cameroon Green. They might not play both for they will have to play two spin options in Glenn Maxwell and Adam Zampa.

Weather watch

While the weather forecast for Sunday seems clear at the moment, Chennai has been receiving unexpected showers for the past few weeks in the evenings. The game might not get called off, but it should come as a surprise should play get stopped by rain, especially in the evening.

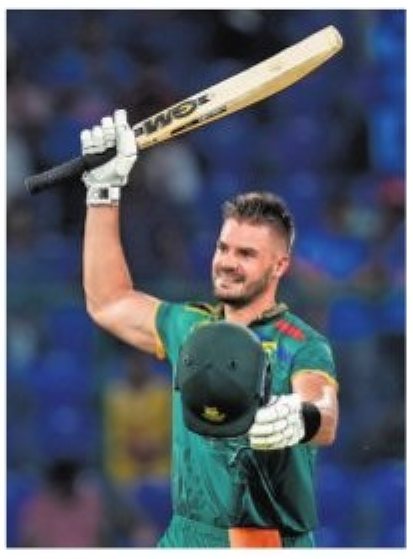
South Africa, Bangladesh register wins



South Africa's Aiden Markram celebrates after reaching century on Saturday | PTI

AGENCIES

South Africa rode on centuries from Quinton de Kock, Rassie van der Dussen and Aiden Markram to thrash Sri Lanka by 102 runs in a World Cup match in New Delhi on Saturday.

Put into bat, the Proteas batters toyed with the Sri Lankan bowlers with Van der Dussen (108 off 110 balls), Markram (106 off 54) and De Kock (100 off 84) smashing quick-fire centuries to lift the side to a commanding total, which was also the highest by a team in the World Cup. Chasing, Charith Asalanka (79 off 65), Kusal Mendis (76 off 42) and skipper Dasun Shanaka (68 off 62) played good knocks but it was not enough.

Meanwhile, Afghanistan lost their World Cup opener against Bangladesh by six wickets in Dharamshala and during the match, cricketers from both the sides slipped on a patchy outfield on more than one occasion while chasing the ball.

Afghanistan coach Jonathan Trott expressed his displeasure over the outfield at the HPCA Stadium, saying it was sheer fortune that some of the players did not pick up niggles while fielding.

BRIEF SCORES

Afghanistan 156 all out in 37.2 ovs (Gurbaz 47; Shakib 3/30, Mehidy 3/25) lost to Bangladesh 158/4 in 34.4 ovs (Mehidy 57, Najmul 59 n.o; Farooqi 1/19); South Africa 428/5 in 50 ovs (Van der Dussen 108, Markram 106, De Kock 100; Madushanaka 2/86) bt Sri Lanka 326 all out (Asalanka 79, Mendis 76, Shanaka 68; Coetzee 3/68).

"BCCI announces the release of 14,000 tickets for the highly anticipated India vs Pakistan match to be held on October 14, 2023, at Ahmedabad," the board said in a statement. "The sale of tickets for the match will commence from 12 PM IST onwards on October 8th, 2023. Fans can purchase tickets by visiting the official ticketing website."

Anwar's advice helps Pakistan's Rizwan

HYDERABAD: A conversation with former Pakistan opener Saeed Anwar on how to bat in Indian conditions has contributed to Mohammad Rizwan's bright starts in the ODI World Cup. Rizwan is among the squad members who are touring India for the first time. He scored a ton in the warm-up against New Zealand before scoring 68 in Pakistan's World Cup opener against Netherlands after the team lost its first three wickets for 38 runs.
